Defense Loses First Point In Graft Trial Over Grand Jury Secrets

Wits of Lawyers Matched in Battle Over Evidence Which Inquisitorial Body Received

Defense Makes Strenuous Efforts to Produce Grand Jury Reporter McSorley in Court to Answer Questions About Transcript in Case

COURT RULES AGAINST APPEARANCE ON STAND

Former Chief of Police J. H. Nedderman, Dave Cockrell and Corporal Thomas O'Neill did not lead one way or the other in Judge James G. Quinn's court this morning to the indictments charging them with graft. Instead these three things happened:

Attorney Peter J. Crosby, for Nedderman, filed a motion to quash the indictments on the grounds that they did not comply with the requirements of law; that, for instance, one indictment alone charged three crimes, asking a bribe, receiving a bribe and agreeing to receive a bribe. It was not possible, the motion cited, to determine what the offense charged really was.

He lost in an effort to put W. T. McSorley, shorthand reporter in the grand jury, on the stand.

His effort to question Foreman A. Kroeger of the grand jury as to the grand jury's actions was opposed by the prosecution and was still undecided when an adjournment was taken at noon.

McSorley was sorely needed in court, Attorney Crosby insisted. There were various things in the text of the indictments that Crosby believed he could clear up only with McSorley's aid. For instance, one man was mentioned in the indictments by the name of "Willie." Crosby said he did not know who "Willie" was and never heard of "Willie." Various whispers about the courtroom suggested "Willie" as the possibly correct version, but whispers were not legal and would not do.

Crosby based his demand for McSorley on other grounds as well. He wanted to satisfy himself of the facts of the transcript before the grand jury. He had a right to know if the transcript he was using was a true and perfect transcript, he said. He tied up on the code provision in this demand, McSORLEY HUNG OUT.

Deputy District Attorney Theodore P. Wittschen interposed an objection, the upshot of which was fifty minutes of wrangling and the final decision of Judge Quinn that McSorley was not wanted. Wittschen claimed that there was no procedure to warrant putting McSorley on the stand. The defense had been given a copy of the transcript before the grand jury. This copy had been certified to by McSorley as complete. There was nothing to warrant calling McSorley.

J. C. TAYLOR, 10 OTHERS ARE TAKEN TO JAIL

Secretary of State Socialist Party and Companions Are Accused of Violating New State Anti-Syndicalism Law

36 Warrants Are Issued; Police Plan "Clean-Up" Campaign to Rid City of Oakland of Members of I. W. W.

J. C. Taylor, secretary of the Socialist party of California, and ten other men prominent in the Socialist party, were arrested last night by Police Inspectors Thomas Wood and Fenton Thompson. In all thirty-six warrants have been issued for the arrest of men charged with violating the "anti-syndicalism" law recently passed by the state legislature.

Taylor was recently a candidate for mayor of Oakland on the Socialist ticket.

Ten of these warrants have been served. The others will probably be served during the day.

J. C. Schmidt was arrested at 10 o'clock today and booked on the same charge held against Taylor and the other alleged I. W. W.'s. He was arrested at 3206 Elsie street.

Ed Larkin, F. C. Fender and Arsenio Noble are the others arrested whose names have been made public by the police.

Several are being held in detention.

This marks the beginning of an effort to clean out the I. W. W. from Oakland and from California.

Taylor was arrested at 1 o'clock today and booked on the same charge held against Taylor and the other alleged I. W. W.'s. He was arrested at 3206 Elsie street.

Inquiry of War Expenditures is Urged in House

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Plans of the Republican leaders of the House for investigations of expenditures of the War Department took definite form today when Representative Graham of Illinois prepared a resolution providing for appointment of a special committee of fifteen members to conduct such an inquiry. Immediate consideration will be asked.

COAST YARDS TO GET BACK SHIP AWARDS

Hurley Promises Reinstatement of Pacific Contractors; California Committee Wins Big Victory at Washington

Shipping Board Chairman Admits Western Plants Not Justly Treated in Cancellations; Record Pointed Out

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE. WASHINGTON, May 28.—Reinstatement of contracts with Pacific coast shipyards which may have been unjustly treated in the cancellation of orders for steel ships was promised today by Chairman Hurley of the shipping board at a conference with West Coast shipbuilders and senators and representatives from California, Washington and Oregon.

The builders told the shipping board that they had been fairly treated and Hurley conceded that probably some individual injustices had resulted from the suspension of contracts.

RECORD OF COAST SHIPBUILDING. Harrison S. Robinson, of Oakland, spokesman for the builders, said 1,745,924 tons of steel vessels had been built by the eighteen Pacific coast yards between August 3, 1917, and May 15, 1919, or 55 per cent of total production in the United States during that time. When it came to cancellations, he said, the board had left the yards with 730,000 tons of contracts, cancelling 235,000, whereas on the Atlantic coast 2,250,000 tons were being built. Pacific coast costs were $199 a ton, while at Hog Island they had averaged $256 per ton on the first seventeen ships.

HURLEY DEFENDS PACIFIC ISLAND YARDS. "We will not know the cost at Hog Island until twenty-five or thirty ships have been delivered," Chairman Hurley interrupted him. "I think your costs are a little high."

Robinson rejoined that the government was furnishing the plant at Hog Island and had to provide for other costs as well, while the Pacific Coast builders were taking care of themselves.

Senator Chamberlain of Oregon demanded to know why the board was continuing to build at Hog Island and Hurley responded that it was because the yard was on its hands.

DEFINITE BIDS ON SHIPS ARE ASKED. J. H. Rosetter, director of operations for the board, asked the builders to be ready to make lump sum bids for contracts and said that so far the board had been unable to secure definite prices.

In discussing proposals to substitute new types of ships for those now contemplated for construction in Pacific coast yards, Rosetter said American builders had been offering to build ships for Great Britain and France for $142 a ton, whereas the price to the United States had been $199.

Robinson declared that all of the ship yards on the Pacific coast would be vacant by February, 1920, under the present government arrangement, while the Hog Island and other government and private yards on the Atlantic coast would be able to run in 1921.

GERMANS ASK 12,850,000,000 MARKS FOR BLOCKADE DAMAGES

HUNS FRAME COUNTER CLAIMS PEACE PACT DEVELOPMENTS

German counter proposals to peace treaty terms claim that promises based on Wilson's fourteen points are not kept. Austrian peace treaty, to be presented at noon Friday, will contain clauses on league of nations, newspapers say. Big Four of peace conference still trying to settle Italy's Adriatic claims; Fiume and boundary questions may be omitted in treaty with Austria.

Hun delegation at Versailles will present counter claim of 12,850,000,000 marks for blockade damage as offset to reparation demands. Allied powers prepare to send food to Petrograd as soon as city is captured from Bolshevik forces.

NC-4 TO RESUME TRIP TOMORROW; MEN DECORATED

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE. WASHINGTON, May 28.—The United States naval seaplane NC-4 will leave Lisbon for Plymouth on the last leg of the trans-Atlantic flight early tomorrow morning, weather permitting, according to a dispatch received at the Navy Department today from Lieutenant Commander Albert C. Read, commander of the plane.

BY UNITED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE. LISBON, May 28.—The Americans who flew across the Atlantic are ready for the hop of more than 700 miles from Lisbon to Plymouth, England. This jump will complete their historic air voyage, which started from Rockaway Beach, New York.

The NC-4 swept over Lisbon shortly after 4 o'clock last evening, New York time, after a nearly perfect flight from Ponta Delgada, Azores. It settled gracefully in the river beside the American warship Rochester. The event, marking an epoch in the annals of aviation, was hailed by a bedlam of whistles and bells from the city and the ships in the stream. Throngs of people were massed on housetops and in the streets to hail the American conquerors of the air as they appeared on the sky. Guns were fired to aid to the din.

Excited populace seized craft land. Small boats darted out from the shore, filled with excited Portuguese, and clustered around the NC-4 as it rested in the water after its 300-mile jump.

The flight from the Azores was smooth and uneventful, according to members of the crew. Soon after their arrival, Read and his men received formal congratulations from the Portuguese officials. Wireless congratulations were also received from Admiral Jackson and Captain Workman at the Azores and from many other officials in the United States and elsewhere. A celebration in honor of the intrepid Americans began last night.

Read was handed two messages when he reached here to be delivered in Plymouth. One was addressed to Queen Mary and was from Rodman Wanamaker, who organized the first projected trans-Atlantic flight.

The first thing the aviators heard when they stepped out to be greeted by the music of the "Star-Spangled Banner" floating over the water from the U. S. S. Rochester. They saluted.

The Portuguese government awarded to Read and Commander Workman and Lieutenant Commander Bellinger of the NC-3 and the NC-1, respectively, the order of Commander of Torrespada, and each member of their crews was made a chevalier of the same order.

Today was a holiday in honor of the Americans. Read was very modest about his achievement.

WILSON THIRD RACE HINGES ON NATION LEAGUE

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE. CHICAGO, May 28.—President Wilson's candidacy for a third term will be determined largely by the fate of the League of Nations, in the opinion of Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who came to Chicago today to preside at a two-day session of that body.

"While I have no information regarding President Wilson's intentions about becoming a candidate for a third term, I believe that the question largely rests on the fate of the League of Nations," said Cummings. "If the League of Nations should by any chance be defeated, and this to my mind is unthinkable, the pressure brought to bear on the President to run again would be very great, and I feel certain that he would be re-elected. If the League of Nations is successful, I do not think the pressure would be nearly as great."

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE. CHICAGO, May 28.—President Wilson today sent a message of congratulation to Lieutenant Commander A. C. Read of the NC-4. The message reads:

"Please accept my heartfelt congratulations on the success of your flight and accept for yourself the expression of my deep admiration. We are all heartily proud of you. You have won and deserve the distinction of adding still further to the laurels of our country."

LONDON, May 28.—The crew of the American seaplane NC-4, which made the first trans-Atlantic aerial passage, landing at Lisbon last evening from the Azores, has been decorated with the Grand Cross of the Order of the Tower and Sword, says a message to the Wireless Press from Lisbon. The decoration was presented by the Portuguese foreign minister.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE. PARIS, May 28.—The German counter-proposals to the terms of the peace treaty presented by her plenipotentiaries at Versailles include the following points, according to an unofficial summary available today:

Germany offers to disarm all 50 her battleships, on condition that a number of her mercantile fleet be restored to her.

She proposes that there be no territorial changes without consultation of the populations affected.

The cession of upper Silesia and the claims to East Prussia, West Prussia and Memel are emphatically rejected.

It is stipulated that Danzig shall become a freeport and the River Vistula neutralized.

Occupied territory is to be evacuated within six months.

If the league of nations is established with Germany as a member, Germany shall continue to administer the colonies in accordance with the principles of the league as mandatory.

Germany offers to pay 20,000,000,000 marks in gold by the year 1926 as indemnity, and to make annual payments of 100,000,000 marks in gold in excess of 100,000,000,000 marks in gold.

BATTLESHIP AND CRUISER TYPES TO SURVIVE

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE. WASHINGTON, May 28.—Rapid completion of the navy's 1916 building program was urged by the general board today in a communication presented to the House naval committee by Secretary Daniels.

The board recommended that only slight changes be made in the plans of the capital ships as originally drawn.

The board's communication showed that the idea of building a composite ship to take the place of battleships and battle cruisers had been abandoned for the time being at least.

That his testimony yesterday had been "generally misconstrued," was asserted by Secretary Daniels when he appeared before the House Naval Affairs Committee today.

"I want to say, though," the Admiral added, "that the British are not a whit more efficient than our men. As a whole I believe our men are in a position better to know our needs."

Admiral McKeenan said fewer men were used on British ships than on American craft of the same type.

"I want to say, though," the Admiral added, "that the British are not a whit more efficient than our men. As a whole I believe our men are in a position better to know our needs."

The cost to the United States of each man in the navy averaged $120 a year, the witness said.

Few changes in the plans of the battleships now being constructed have been necessary, the admiral said, and those were in line with modern developments.

"This is a striking demonstration of the efficiency of the men who drew up the plans."

COURT BATTLE IS URGED IN CRAFT CASE

It could not intelligently and properly present motions without such additional data as it was proposed to secure from McSorley.

ARGUMENTS FAIL TO CONVINCE COURT.

But McSorley was not forthcoming. The argument for his appearance began at 10 o'clock; it ended at ten minutes to eleven. Then the court decided that the state's argument had the best of it and McSorley was left to his comparatively peaceful task of taking records in another court.

Thereupon Crosby submitted to District Attorney Deane the motions which had been prepared and which criticized the indictments against his client, Krogger. This formally over, Crosby called to the witness stand, to begin the support of his motion, Foreman Krogger.

Taller (tall and slender, thin faced) with alert gray eyes, his hair white and sparse and his moustache white, too, Foreman Krogger presented another worldly appearance to the attorneys of the court. He finished deciding whether he could answer questions or not, he presented an appearance of ennui as well.

"What is your name?" Crosby asked, and he replied.

"You are the foreman of the grand jury which returned indictment," Crosby said.

"Now, Mr. Krogger, after hearing the evidence submitted by the state, did it not, to consider."

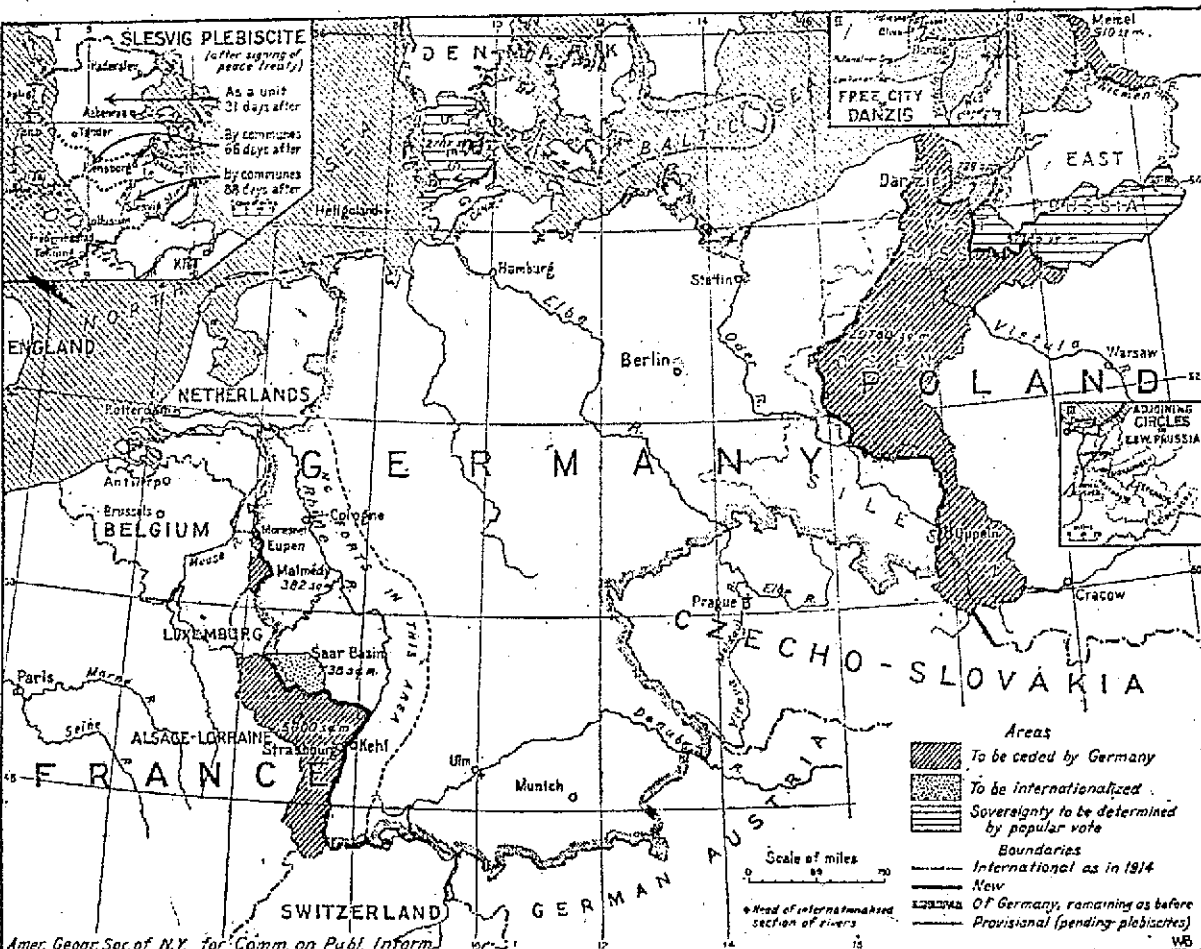

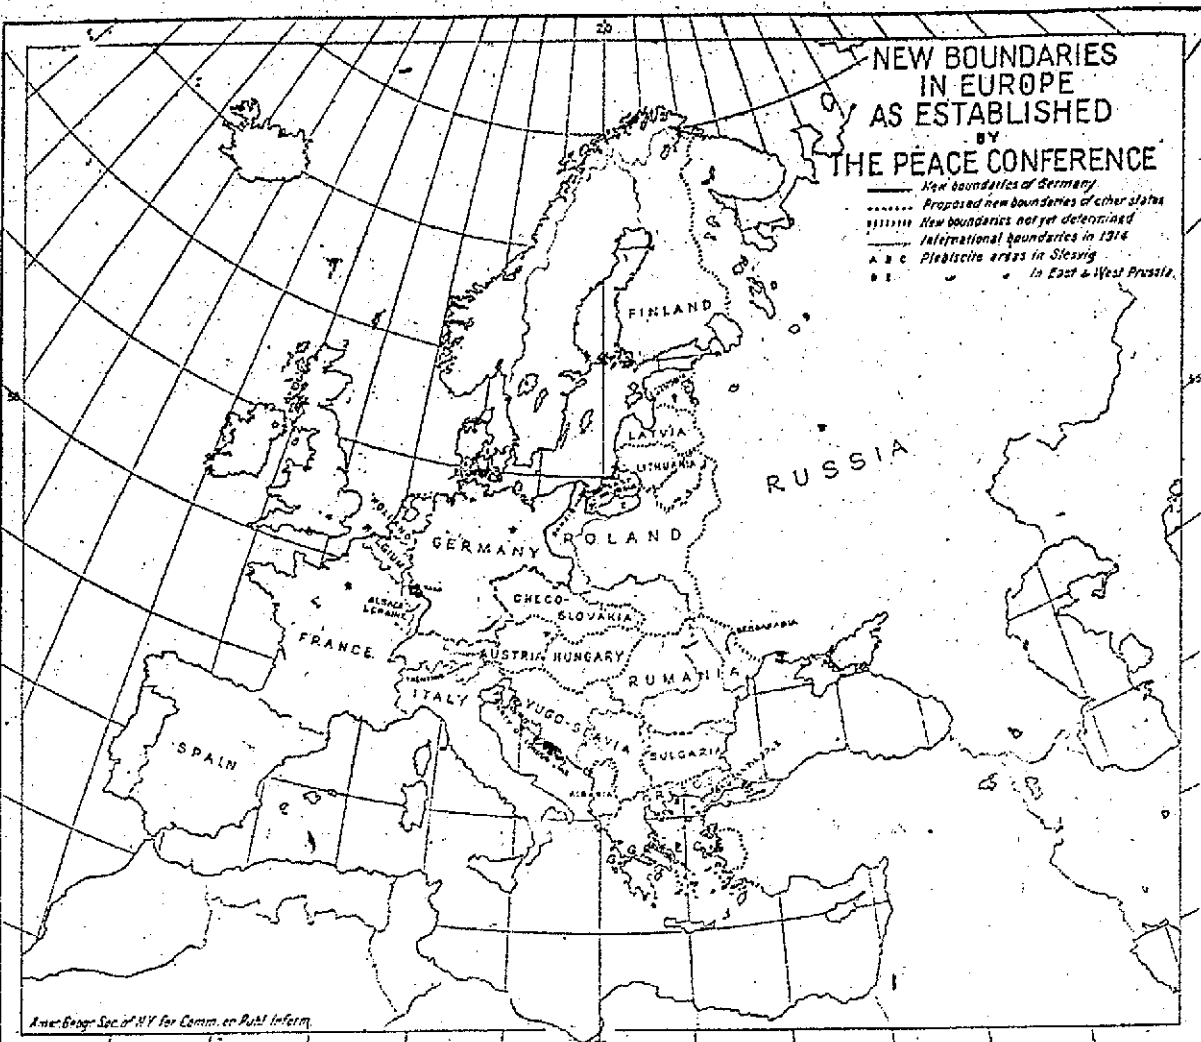

"That was as far as Crosby got, and Krogger was after him again. The inquiry, district attorney's argument was substantially the same as before. He presented several cases where the state supreme court had held that there was no error in getting at the details of a grand jury hearing from a grand juror himself. Certain formal questions might be asked of such a juror, but these were explicitly provided. Krogger's decisions stood in the code. Especially he did not propose to permit the defense attorney to question the foreman on matters connected with the proceedings of the jury outside of what was said in the transcript. The former question was repeated by Wit-

"Have you any authorities to submit in contradiction?"

Also, once more Crosby replied that he had not, but he relied upon the code and upon his client's inherent right to fair play.

The books of decisions from which Wit-schen had been reading thereupon went over the edge of the judge's table and the magistrate gave his undivided attention from then until close to the noon hour to their text. At noon an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock, when a decision non the Krogger matter was expected. The Cockrell and O'Neill cases, not yet attacked, were set over to the same hour.

cently nearly caused a split in the peace conference will be reserved for future settlement by the "big four." By this means the allies will be enabled to go ahead and come to terms with Austria without the danger of Italy raising a last-minute objection. It is pointed out, NEW NATIONALITIES TO PAY PART OF BILL.

Difficulty has been experienced according to available information in allocating the Austrian reparations among the new nationalities which have gained recognition since the armistice. Instead of Germany and Austria as they now exist, paying the entire bill, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia will have to pay a portion, because their people were part of the enemy nations when the debt was rolled up. Financial experts found this system necessary in order to maintain the world's equilibrium during the breaking up of central Europe. Military terms will not be included in the treaty as at present drawn.

While interest is centered in the Austrian treaty, the presentation of the German counter-proposals is eagerly awaited. These are nearly ready to be handed over. The counter-proposals, as stated in an exclusive United Press despatch from Berlin, ask that Germany be admitted to the league of nations as a prime requisite of peace.

Admiral Kolchak's anti-Bolshevik government at Omsk will not be recognized by the United States until this country learns more about him. It was stated authoritatively.

HEROIC ATTEMPT TO SAVE BOY IS TO NO AVAIL

MARTINEZ, May 28.—The attempt of Clarence Johnson to rescue from drowning his friend, Joe Brazil, the 20-year-old son of a prominent Concord family, while the boys were swimming off the Municipal wharf was unavailing yesterday. The body of young Brazil was later recovered. Brazil plunged into the water, rose to the surface once and immediately sank. Johnson dived for the body, and in the death clutch of his friend struggled for his life beneath the water. When the two boys came to the surface Johnson broke away. Before he could again snatch at Brazil, he disappeared. With a party of friends Brazil went to Martinez for a swim last night.

NAVAL BASE FUNDS 'PAID WAR TAX' ON LOTTERY WINNING

A program embracing a list of important accomplishments to be desired for the cities on the mainland of San Francisco bay is now being worked out at the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, following recommendations adopted by the board of directors at its regular meeting last night.

One of the principal aims is securing an appropriation from Congress for the Alameda naval base and to this end it is planned to send a strong delegation shortly to Washington to urge action. The program also includes:

An appropriation from Congress for the dredging and development of the "Kaiser" basin; an organized effort to secure the immediate beginning of work on the proposed estuary bridge; and a movement with a view to securing joint city and county government for Oakland, either with or without the co-operation of the other Eastbay cities as may be determined to be advisable.

To handle the campaign for a consolidated government, the directors authorized President H. C. Cuyler to appoint a special committee of five members to the board.

In order that the complete machinery of the chamber shall be put behind the projects enumerated above, the directors decided that the entire membership be brought together at least four times a year. One of these meetings will be the annual gathering, the others will be luncheons, dinners or smokers. At each meeting a review of achievements will be made and a program for future accomplishments mapped out.

Japanese to Raise Sunken Warships

TOKYO, May 28.—After fifteen years, plans are being made here to raise a score of Russian warships sunk in the battle of Japan sea during the Russo-Japanese war.

The warships still lie at the bottom of the sea off Korea, Kyushu, Iki, Tsushima and Sardinia. A petition has been sent to the Pokuoka prefectural office asking that proper authorities be given a number of Japanese capitalists to float the vessels.

BORAH BEATEN IN PENROSE ATTACK

WASHINGTON, May 28.—By a sweeping majority, Republican senators, assembled in an open conference, today refused to accept the warning of Senator Borah, progressive Republican of Idaho, that the choice of Senator Penrose, old guard Republican of Pennsylvania, as chairman of the senate finance committee, meant the "endorsement of a system of taxation that would do more to bring Bolshevism in the United States and destroy American institutions than anything else." By a vote of 34 to 8, Borah's motion to strike out the name of Senator Penrose as head of the finance committee was defeated.

Senator Penrose was among the absentees. Borah disclaimed any intention of carrying his fight against Penrose to the floor of the senate.

The eight senators voting for the striking out of the name of Penrose as chairman of the finance committee were: Borah, Idaho; Leonard, Wisconsin; McCormack, Illinois; McNary, Oregon; Capner, Kansas; Cummins, Iowa; Johnson, California; and Kenyon, Iowa.

HEAVY BLOWS DEALT TO RED RUSS ARMIES

LONDON, May 28.—Heavy defeats administered to Bolshevik troops in north and south Russia were announced by the war office today.

Two communist regiments were destroyed in north Russia, west of Rodakous, the statement said.

Near Manich, in southern Russia, on May 2, anti-Bolshevik Russian volunteers attacked the reds and advanced to Remontnoe, capturing 3500 prisoners and 15,000 rifles, thirteen cannon and fifty machine guns. In another battle the Tenth

GERMANS FORCED TO REMOVE HATS TO U. S. COLORS

COBLENZ, May 28. (By the Associated Press).—Male citizens in the streets of Coblenz were compelled to salute the American flag Monday, when the American third army's composite regiment marched through Coblenz for an informal review.

As the flag passed along the streets the color guards compelled the Germans to remove their hats in token of respect.

This was the first time since their arrival on the Rhine that the Americans had insisted upon a salute from civilians and the action caused much excitement among the Germans.

Bolshevik army was defeated on its entire front, 10,000 prisoners being taken when two regiments surrendered May 10.

On the other hand, the war of the air, the Germans had occupied practically the whole of the Donetz river basin.

Speeders Line Up For Liberty Race Auto Classic to Be Run Saturday

Special to The TRIBUNE.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 28.—It is raining drivers, mechanics, tire experts, gasoline vendors and other followers of the burning pastime at Indianapolis, where preparations are being rushed for the international 500-mile Liberty sweepstakes on the Indianapolis speedway Saturday. The gypsies of the racing arena are flocking to their annual fiesta to "quaff at the great Hoosier speed bowl of the fiery potion of frenzied world competition."

Newly arrived knights of the wheel to enter the lists of the gasoline tourney are the French team, composed of Louis Chevrolet, Ralph Mulford, Gaston Chevrolet and Joseph Boyer Jr., three members of the Duesenberg quartet, Tommy Milton, Eddie O'Donnell and Wilbur D'Alema; and a number of free lances, Eddie Hearne, Tom Alley, Omar Tott, Louis LeCocq and Ray Howard.

FAMOUS SPEEDERS THERE.

Among this army of gasoline worshippers are a number of aces of the speed sports, pilots upon whom America will stake her hopes during the impending conflict with Europe on the Indianapolis field of battle—Louis Chevrolet, famous for his exploits since the earliest days of American automobile racing; Ralph Mulford, winner of the 1911 Vanderbilt; Eddie O'Donnell, 1916 road racing champion; Eddie Hearne, veteran of more speed battles than there are weeks in his life; and Tommy Milton, winner of the Victory sweepstakes race at Uniontown.

Eddie O'Donnell is still carefully protecting a bum wing received in 1916 while going through the fence on Kansas City's dirt track, the same having refused to knit properly, necessitating resetting it a couple of times. However, he states the arm is in the best shape right now that it has been since revealed and inspected.

He tested it out thoroughly on his journey from Los Angeles to Indianapolis, which he made in a touring car, he has no fear of his ability to hold a 100-mile-an-hour flight.

SOFT STILL IN RING.

Omar Tott is also slightly hors de combat, having received some severe burns while unscrewing the radiator cap on his boiling Duesenberg Special during the recent Speedway race at Uniontown. Omar also tried to do a little fence busting on this occasion, gyrating up and down on the embankment of the track several times before coming to a stop. However, Tott is still in the ring, and expects to make things interesting for the boys in the Hoosier set.

Wet and foggy weather has greatly interfered with the training routine of drivers quartered at the Indianapolis club, and any days of sunshine prior to the elimination trials are expected to crowd the bricks to capacity. The European contenders in the race have the edge on their American rivals in this respect, most of them having started work at the speedway early in the month, with the result that at the present writing they are in much better shape. However, a majority of the U. S. contingent are familiar with the Hoosier oval, and will require little work to round out their form.

AMERICAN CHANCE GOOD.

With the Sunbeam team eliminated from consideration, America's chance to cap the big Indianapolis classic has materially improved, inasmuch as the weight of Rosta and Chassagne, former Sunbeam drivers, is thought to be certain of being thrown from one side of the scale into the other. All the foreign mounts left in the race are taken, and only American-built speed creations are open to their choice. It so happens that these are of highest capacity and in the hands of two such star performers as the ex-British representatives, would have as good a chance of winning as anything in the field.

It is interesting facts about the big classic:

Start—10 a. m.

Distance—500 miles.

Prizes—$50,000 for first ten to finish; $30,000 to winner.

Number of entrants—42.

Number of starters—32 (ten entrants eliminated through time trials prior to race, the 32 fastest starting).

Number of European cars—13.

Number of American cars—8.

Area of speedway—2 1/2 acres.

Grandstands and boxes seat 60,000.

Grounds will easily accommodate 200,000.

Expected attendance—100,000.

Track measures 2 1/2 miles to the lap; 16 1/2 feet wide, with 2000-foot turns banked 16 degrees.

Prize money paid out since 1909—$275,000.

Estimated time required to run race—Approximately 5 1/2 hours.

Oroville Soil to Grow Cotton, Expert Says

CHICO, May 28.—The very best cotton grown in the southern states is grown on a red clay soil similar to that of the Oroville foothill area. This is the declaration of L. P. Riley, a cotton expert, formerly of Mississippi but now of Calexico, who is in Butte county investigating cotton-growing here. Riley asserts that planters need not be deterred from planting through fear of small prices. According to his statement the world shortage in drygoods assures high prices of cotton for some years to come.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

YOU know the real human doctors right around in your neighborhood: the doctors made of flesh and blood just like you: the doctors with souls and hearts: those men who are responding to your call in the dead of night as readily as in the broad daylight; they are ready to tell you the good that Fletcher's Castoria has done, is doing and will do, from their experience and their love for children.

Fletcher's Castoria is nothing new. We are not asking you to try an experiment. We just want to impress upon you the importance of buying Fletcher's. Your physician will tell you this, as he knows there are a number of imitations on the market, and he is particularly interested in the welfare of your baby.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy: why you must insist on Fletcher's?

For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

GROWERS TO DO TESTING-GRADING

STOCKTON, Cal., May 28.—To have the testing and grading of their wheat, corn, barley and other products done by their own expert, members of the San Joaquin county unit of the Farm Owners and Operators' National Association may equip a department for that special service. This will include dryers to reduce moisture in corn and beans and recleaners for seed.

The complaint of the farmers is that in many cases the tests and grades secured at the offices of buyers and dealers vary, and each insists on his own report as a basis of purchase. The farmers may secure their own expert and the best scientific equipment, and they will not offer their products for sale until the association has passed on its grade. The service is to be free to members of the association.

As an additional service the association is investigating the possibility of securing a daily market report, not alone as to quotations, but as to general market movements. This report will be confidential to members and will be available daily during the selling season.

The association will ultimately put on its own statistician and provide crop estimates and reports independent of both government bureau's and commission men's bulletin. The aim is to bring first to the farmer plain and practical help that will be of immediate aid in his problems. The movement does not call into question the service of others; the farmer merely wants to develop his own independence of existing agencies.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WALK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her to Health.

Perth Amboy, N. J.—"For three years I suffered with a severe female trouble, was nervous, had backache and a pain in my side most of the time. I had dizzy spells and was often so faint I could not walk across the floor. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my newspaper, and tried it. Now I am better, feel strong, have no pains, backache or dizzy spells. Every one tells me how well I look, and I tell them to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—that is what makes me feel well and look well. I recommended it to my sister and she is using it now. You can use this letter if you wish, for it is certainly a grand remedy for a woman's ills."—Mrs. MARTHA SEARLES LAWRENCE, 824 Penn St., Perth Amboy, N. J.

For forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

This most remarkable remedy causes the stomach to act naturally and keeps the bowels open. Is purely vegetable, producing only light beneficial results.

A physician, giving testimony concerning the plaintiff's injuries, succeeded in reviving her but she was too weak after recovery for the hearing to continue.

MASONS WELCOME, WIVES ARE BARRED

Mrs. John Whichever of San Francisco and Mrs. William Rhodes Hervey of Los Angeles will not visit His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught next month. It is wives government not approve of the women traveling for pleasure. That is why they are forced to breathe the California atmosphere and rub shoulders with the common folk across the seas will welcome the United Grand Lodge of Masons at England in London, June 23-30, and all its delegates, but, continues to look upon visiting women as strictly non-essential and luxuries.

So Mrs. Whichever and Mrs. Hervey will read their husbands' letters reciting all the splendors and wonders of the Duke's palace and the Duke of Connaught has commanded the California men as his special guests during the convalesce. The California women appealed to Senator James D. Phelan for help, begging him to intercede for them with the state department. But so far they have succeeded only in a conviction that they remain at home.

Feast of Weeks Will Be Observed Temple Sinai to Hold Ceremonies

Shabbath, the feast of the weeks, which falls this year on Wednesday, June 4, will be observed by two religious ceremonies in Temple Sinai. Twenty-eighth and Webster streets. The confirmation ceremony in connection with the observance will be omitted, owing to the long period during which the work of the young students was interrupted, through the epidemic of the winter. However, the children in the religious school will participate in the Wednesday morning services and the members of the Alumni in the confirmation class of last year will take part in the ritual.

A special program of music has been arranged for the significant ceremony. The feast of the weeks will be observed on Tuesday with a 6:30 p. m. service. The service does not exist from them any other confession than that of a belief in one God, and in His justice and truth as manifested in history. The service also symbolizes a graduation from the religious school where boys and girls have been taught Biblical and Jewish history, Jewish ethics, Hebrew, and Jewish literature.

North Oakland Is No Longer in 'Fog Belt'

North Oakland is no longer to be classed as "the fog belt" when policemen are sent there from the central district. Chief of Police J. P. Lynch, who has a warm spot in his heart for the district and who opened the Northern station, has rechristened it the "Thermal Belt," so far as police nomenclature is concerned.

"Hereafter we won't say that a man has moved to the fog belt—it's the thermal belt now," said Lynch. "There's no fog out there."

The Melrose district is still the "fog belt" in official slang.

Fruitvale Church Program Tomorrow

An entertainment, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of Fruitvale, is to be given in the Fruitvale church, Boston avenue and School streets, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The women of the church are to take part in a play—"Our Church, Our Future"—and the boys appear in several numbers, one of which is "The Chinese Laundry." The participants of this play are Fred Barr, Rheue Reitz, Hugh Hockett, Elbert Corpe, Howard Sorrells, Harold Spring, William Agers, Howard Van Lehn, Lewis Vincent and Otis Lennox.

The Misses Lydia, Hortense and Constance Roberts will give several numbers on the piano, violin and cello during the evening. During the intervals refreshments are to be served.

Butte Wants Road Named for Lassen

CHICO, May 23.—Butte county Native Sons will present a resolution to the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons, which convenes in the Yosemite next month, asking that steps be taken to change the name of Lake Almanor highway to Peter Lassen highway, to honor the memory of the pioneer. The resolution, drawn by P. M. Moore of Chico, will be sent to the State Highway Commission by Argonaut Parlor of Oroville, where the resolution was adopted. "It is one of the first duties of our order to preserve the early traditions of this state and the memory of Peter Lassen, who conveyed so many early settlers over the mountains into the Sacramento valley, should be preserved by naming the highway in his honor," said Moore yesterday.

Nightingale's Fine Reduced by Judge

Superior Judge Quinn has reduced the fine assessed on Charles Nightingale, policeman, from $250 to $25. Nightingale was convicted of having broken a window in the storeroom where a local newspaper was conducting a circulation contest, asserted by Nightingale to have been "crooked." Judge Quinn said that the only charge Nightingale was convicted on was breaking a window, and that the fine of $250 was excessive.

YALE CAMPUS RIOTS REVIVED BY TOWN MOB

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 28.—Bolshevism influence is blamed by Mayor Fitzgerald in part for the revival, after a lapse of many years, of the town and gown rioting, which broke loose in this city last night, when a mob made up of a small proportion of soldiers and a much larger proportion of town boys, and numbering several thousands, mobbed a number of Yale students, causing serious injury to at least a dozen, attempted unsuccessfully to storm the Yale campus, broke hundreds of windows in the Yale buildings and damaged much private property. Two civilians who were shot were resting comfortably in the hospital today, neither wounded seriously.

The Yale Daily News today laid the blame at the door of the newspapers, which had yesterday printed stories to the effect that trouble was brewing as a result of insults alleged to have been passed by Yale students upon men of the 102d Regiment who paraded by the campus last Saturday.

The cases of John S. Perry of Covington, O.; John D. Hough of Oak Park, Ill., and Hugh O. Clement of Rutland, Vt., Yale students, who were arrested on charges of carrying concealed weapons and breach of the peace following the shooting, and of three other local men arrested during the disturbance, were continued in the police court today for further testimony.

Early this morning several hundred students, angered by the breaking of many fine windows and the insults hurled at them by the mob, marched down toward the center of town to give battle to the mob of "townies" and soldiers. They were restrained with difficulty and sent back to their rooms before a clash occurred.

Police from every quarter of the city were rushed into action, and it was nearly 2 o'clock this morning before a semblance of quiet was restored in the city streets.

The rioting began when a mob, in which were a number of men in uniform, gathered on the central green, and proceeded toward the campus, heating up students who were out alone. The students, armed with stones and slings, then returned to the center of the city, where they looted cafes and theaters in search of students and others whom they mistook for Yale men. Then they proceeded over through the South District and it was during this trip that the most serious damage to college property occurred.

16,540 SOLDIERS TO ARRIVE TODAY

NEW YORK, May 28.—The transports Emden and Luckenbach and Santa Paula docked early today with troops from France, and five other troopships were due to arrive before tonight with a total of 16,540 returning soldiers.

On the Luckenbach were the 31st field artillery, minus a detachment of officers; the 314th machine gun battalion, minus a detachment of officers; a casual company from Ohio and two special casual companies.

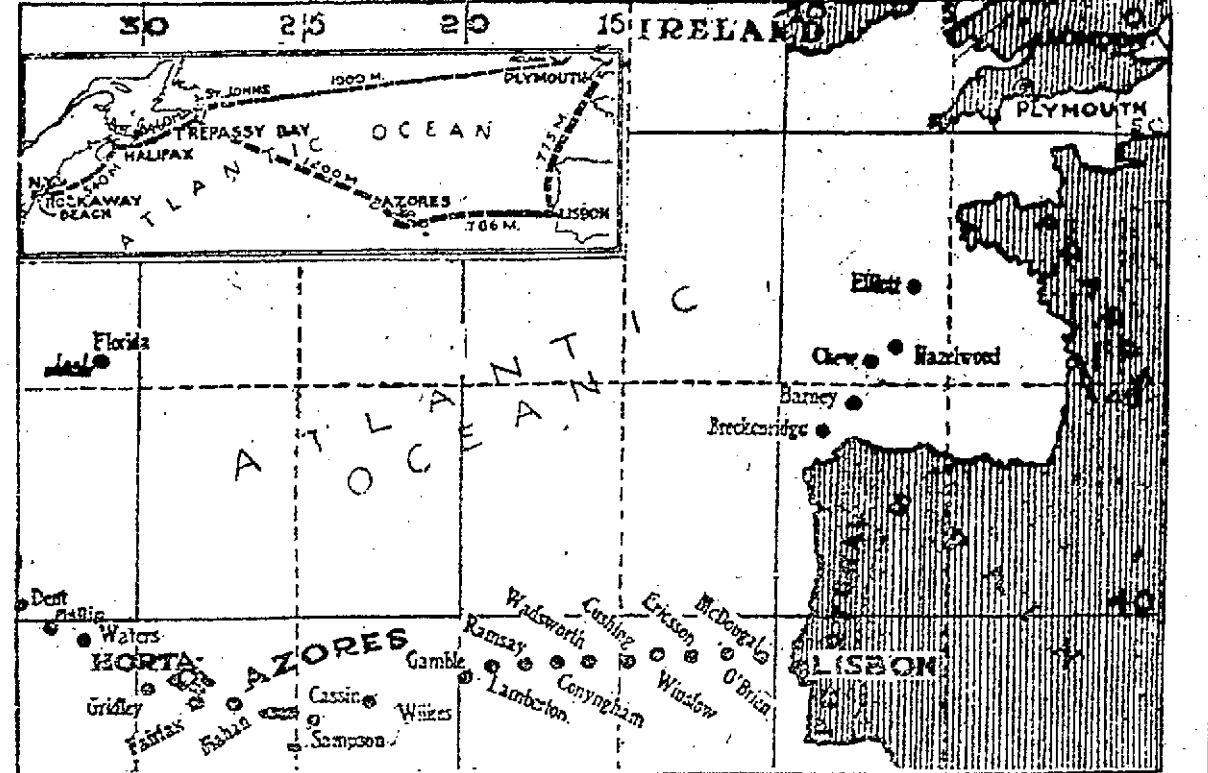

The Santa Paula brought the 221st field artillery detachments of Battery C, 20th engineer headquarters and medical detachments, 155th infantry brigade headquarters and medical detachments and other units.

Injuries in Accident Are Fatal to Clerk

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Gerard Dillon, 35, a clerk at Union Iron Works and living at 2035 Golden Gate avenue, died at the Central Emergency hospital this morning as a result of injuries received when he was struck by a Brown taxi, driven by Edward Dennison, at Cole and Fell streets at 2 a. m. Dennison was arrested and charged with manslaughter.

The deceased, accompanied by four other men, was riding in a car when his taxi blew off. As he stopped over him, he was struck by the taxi driven by Dennison, who sustained a fractured skull and other injuries.

$25,000 PRIZE FOR HAWKER; FLYERS TELL OWN STORY

By EARL C. REEVES, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, May 28.—While a great cheering crowd stood outside Buckingham Palace, King George today decorated Harry G. Hawker and Mackenzie Grieve, his navigator, with the air force cross, thus inaugurating the new insignia, which is to be awarded only to aviators especially distinguished themselves for bravery.

From the palace Hawker and Grieve rode through streets lined with cheering thousands on route to a luncheon given in their honor by the Daily Mail, which promoted the transatlantic competition. Major General Seely, on behalf of the newspaper, bestowed a $25,000 consolation prize upon each of the two men who were rescued from mid-Atlantic after an unsuccessful attempt to fly to Ireland.

"LITTLE LUCK WOULD HAVE WON HONORS."

The luncheon was attended by officials of the ministry and prominent government officials, who gave Hawker and Grieve a warm welcome when they entered the room. Hawker responded in a few words to laudatory speeches. He referred to the success of the American flyers in crossing the Atlantic and said that with a little more luck his Sopwith plane would have put the British flag across first.

A series of receptions and celebrations, including one at the Sopwith Aeroplane Company plant, followed the luncheon. Crowds gathered about the automobiles conveying the aviators and at some places the police had to make way for them. In all the demonstrations Australian soldiers played a big part.

HAWKER NOT LIKELY TO GO ON STAGE.

Hawker has declined several offers to appear on the variety stage and probably will also reject bids from cinema companies. It was said today. He will confer with officials of the Sopwith company and visit the Brooklands aerodrome tomorrow before making a definite announcement as to whether or not he will make another attempt to cross the Atlantic.

A big basketful of congratulatory messages were awaiting Hawker last night after he finally landed the huge crowds that acclaimed him. Many of these came from America and nearly every country on the globe was represented.

GREATEST RECEPTION SINCE WAR BEGAN.

THE MAJOR OF ST. PANCRAS and the councilors of the borough officially welcomed the aviators. In the background were many generals, members of the House of Commons and other British, French and American and other aviators.

After the reception Australian soldiers lifted Hawker and Grieve on their shoulders and carried them to their motor cars. Mrs. Hawker and Grieve followed Hawker in succeeding cars.

TOOK CHANCE ON WEATHER IN DASH.

In a statement to the Daily Mail's correspondents today, Hawker said: "We started because the weather was better and the moon was dying fast, and if we had not started then we might have missed the chance of being first across."

"The Americans were off. They were very serious propositions. They had one leg to go and we had one to go. We knew that once American machine had reached the Azores and reports came that all three were there. That was very serious and we had decided over night with Captain Raynham (who was to attempt the flight from St. John's in a Martinus machine) that we would start if the weather was at all hopeful."

"As a matter of fact, we went away on fewer weather reports than we had any day previously. It was a splendid get-off—much better than we had expected."

KISSED OTHER AIR PILOT GOODBYE.

"We passed over Qui Vidi at 2000 feet, being six miles from the airplane in a straight line, a jolly good climb with that load. We saw Raynham and his machine, surrounded by a crowd, and kissed him goodbye."

Hawker remained seated the whole time, but Grieve moved about. Each of them ate a sandwich and drank four cups of coffee out of a vacuum flask.

"And the next thing I ate," said Hawker, "was about 72 hours later. The fact is, I was very seasick when we got down low and afterwards for two days in the ship."

"It was like being in a small motorboat in a heavy sea when we flew down to look for a ship," Hawker added. "We were tossed about by waves and were bumped about quite badly."

WATER UP TO KNEES WHEN PLANE ALIGHTS.

Describing their position when the plane alighted, Hawker and Grieve said they were in water up to their knees and the waves were close to the upper planes at times. The nose of the machine was turned into the wind and now and again a big wave dashed over it.

"I had to laugh," said Hawker, "when one big wave, a real big one, came up under the top plane, which up to that time had been dry and shining. It lifted us right out and I saw the trailing edge of the top plane break clean away."

Hawker said they spent their time discussing how the Mary was handled and whether she could save the machine and its appliances. All this time the little boat carried by the Sopwith machine was about beside the plane, dancing about like a cork.

SHIP'S BOAT HIT AIRPLANE, HE SAYS.

"When the ship's boat reached the plane," said Hawker, "she banged right into the machine and we hopped on board. The ship swung and landed the boat back and we climbed aboard the Mary."

Grieve asked the captain whether he could save the machine, but the captain regretted his inability to do so and said: "That was a narrow home to you."

Both were reluctant to describe their feelings at the time, but summed them up as follows:

Grieve—"I didn't feel excited in the slightest, either at the start or when rescued."

Hawker—"It seemed a very uneventful affair. When we started we felt it was a one hundred to one chance for us."

"The weather was no hindrance and we should have made the flight but for the trouble occasioned by the water hitting in our cooling system. We could have got through the work of the weather in a couple of hours."

GRIEVE TELLS OWN STORY OF FLIGHT.

The wireless was not a great success," Lieutenant Commander Mackenzie Grieve said. "On starting we found the spark very feeble and only a small amperage obtainable, owing to the undersized propeller. It took two hours to get our messages every half-hour and think they should have been heard if any ship had been near enough, but never had any reply. My chief object was to let them know we were still in the air. During the last few hours when the engine was throttled down the speed of the machine was insufficient to drive the wireless equipment and no spark could be generated, but I sent 'S. O. S.' signals every 15 minutes on an off chance of the spark operating."

"From a navigating point of view I placed no reliance on the wireless other than as a means of asking the positions of such ships as we might pass. The ships had previously been asked by wireless from St. John's to make known their positions if they saw us by day or if we fired Very lights by night. As we saw no vessel, no light was fired. One vessel has reported having seen a light, but the observers on board may have described the red glow of the exhaust."

FOUND POSITION BY REFERENCE TO STARS.

"We preferred to navigate chiefly by celestial observations and my position, as I worked it out by the stars, was virtually correct. I used a cloud horizon instead of a sea horizon, as the sea was hardly visible any of the time we were in the air."

"During the first four hours after leaving we passed over fog banks. The clouds below were like a sea, giving a perfect horizon. I had only had to judge our distance above them. About 7 o'clock, Greenwich time, I saw the sea for a few seconds through a hole in the fog or cloud bank. I obtained some idea of the drift of the machine by noting the breaking waves through the drift indicator. We were then at a height of 4000 feet and climbing, the drift being ten degrees to the right of our course, which I had already allowed for on starting owing to the northeast wind that was blowing."

DRIFT TO SOUTH PERSISTS IN FLIGHT.

"Up to 19:15 o'clock we steered to make a true east course, not magnetic east. During that period I took sights every hour. At 19:15 I made out that we were 400 miles from St. John's. We then altered our course to north 73 degrees east to keep in the track of ships, which we should have just entered at that time."

"The clouds were badly broken up and made sights impossible until about 1:38, when I managed to get the pole star down to a flat piece of cloud, and was surprised to find we were about 150 miles south of the course. We immediately altered our course a little to the northward and the northward and worked a further sight obtained half an hour later I found we were still settling southward, and realizing that a very strong northerly gale must have been blowing, made a decided alteration to the northward and worked the machine up to latitude 50 degrees north and into the track followed by ships."

NOTABLES TO BE AT FRUIT RALLY

RIVERSIDE, May 28.—Five hundred experts on various branches of horticulture and farming and active farmers and fruit growers opened the 51st annual Fruit Growers' and Farmers' convention here today, as the big event in Riverside's horticultural week.

The convention will remain in session until Saturday. While its meetings will center here, field day trips with practical demonstrations will take the convention to both Corona and Pomona citrus districts.

Purification of orchards including the liquid hydrocyanic process, will be given particular study.

Aside from the technical knowledge which the meetings will disseminate a closer unity of the western states and of Mexico, British Columbia and the Hawaiian Islands is to be fostered during the meetings.

Governor Cantu of Lower California will be present in person at one of the sessions. It is expected Governor Stephens will make an address. Dean Hunt of the University of California's farm school at Davis, and Dean H. J. Webber of the university's citrus experiment station at Riverside, will represent the State university. Dr. Elwood J. Mead, expert on land colonization, and M. E. Kaufman of the bureau of crop estimates are among the Federal government representatives.

HAPPIEST WOMAN IN WHOLE STATE

That Is What Mrs. Wiseman Says After Tanlac Restored Health.

"Since Tanlac has so completely overcome all my troubles and I am so perfectly well in every way, I know I am the happiest woman in all California," said Mrs. Clay Wiseman, who lives at 2235 Bonita avenue, Sacramento, while purchasing a bottle of Tanlac at The Owl Drug Company a few days ago.

"My case had been pronounced absolutely hopeless," continued Mrs. Wiseman, "for I had been having the very best treatment and medicines that money could get, and in spite of that I just grew weaker all the time. My troubles began about two years ago when I commenced to suffer from indigestion, and in a very short time my stomach was in such bad condition that my food would sour soon after meals. I commenced taking restorative right before I had the first bottle of Tanlac. It made my headway, but it just seemed impossible to find anything that would help me the rest of the time. This sour food in my stomach would cause gas to form, and sometimes I was hardly able to get a good breath on account of this gas pressing up around my heart and lungs. I suffered a great deal from nervousness, too, and I rarely ever got a good night's sleep. Then I began to have terrible pains in the small of my back, and would frequently have aching headaches. After everything else I tried had failed to help me, I was told that I must go on a diet of milk and toast, and instead of improving from that on, I just seemed to get worse faster than ever, and finally got so weak and run down that I could hardly walk, and then they told me there was nothing else that could be done, and no medicine or treatment would ever overcome my troubles."

"One day shortly after that, my husband suggested that I try Tanlac, and said that a friend of his had been greatly helped by it, and I said 'All right, as long as I have tried everything else that was recommended, I might as well try Tanlac, too.' So I commenced taking it that day. The first bottle didn't seem to do me a particle of good so I told my husband that Tanlac was like all the rest of the medicines I had taken—no good—but he insisted that I give it a fair trial, so I decided to take one more bottle. Well, by the time I had finished that second bottle of Tanlac I was feeling very much better, and I kept on taking it until I am now as well and strong as I ever was in my life. Why, I have gained twenty pounds in weight already, and I never had a better appetite, and I can eat meats, vegetables and just anything I want and I never have indigestion or sour stomach afterwards. Oh, I am just so happy over what Tanlac has done for me that I just feel like I want the whole world to know about it, and I just want to tell everybody I meet in the streets what a wonderful medicine Tanlac is. My advice to anybody who takes this wonderful medicine is not to be discouraged if the first bottle doesn't give the relief you long for, but just keep on taking it, as the results are sure to come."

Tanlac is sold in San Francisco and Oakland by The Owl Drug Company stores.—Advertisement.

-Do you do this in your kitchen?

Do you prepare vegetables, the wrong way—the wasteful way—holding them under running water while paring them?

Or do you do it the right way—fill a pan with water and frequently dip the vegetable you are paring into the water?

It costs you about 86 cents more a month to do it the wrong way providing you allow the water to run only five minutes. If it takes longer to pare the vegetables, it costs you more. Hard to realize that such a little water waste amounts to so much, isn't it?

It's just as easy to prepare vegetables the right way—the water-saving way. Habit makes you do it the wrong way. Break that costly habit.

Start now to watch the little leaks that make water bills big. See that all faucets have good washers—that they close tightly. Break the little habits of water wastefulness—water costs money. Save it.

Tonight! Take Dodson's Liver Tone! Better Than Calomel For Liver

Calomel sickens! If bilious, constipated and headachy read my guarantee.

Listen to me! Take no more sickening, salivating calomel when bilious or constipated. Don't lose a day's work!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones.
Calomel, when it comes into contact with your bile, causes it to break up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents.
Take a spoonful tonight, and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning, I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not siltate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep you entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children.
It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.—Advertisement.

School Women's Club to Hold Jinks Tomorrow

By GEORGIA G. BORDWELL.

While the Mothers' Clubs are down in Santa Cruz this week, reporting the accomplishments of the past year, and discussing the weighty problems of the solving of which they will assume during the coming year —trying to decide how best to keep Mary from wearing silk stockings and extravagant frilly blouses to school and things like that—the teachers, who face the problems every day, will, tomorrow evening, shift all care. They themselves will don the frilly blouses and things like that and turn themselves loose for one "whoop-la" time—and nobody is going to begrudge them the time, either, for if ever anybody deserved a real party it is the Oakland School Women's Club. The annual jinks will be held at "Tech" tomorrow evening and will begin at 8 o'clock. The program—supposedly a cabaret—has been kept a profound secret, but it is intimated that some of those who are to take part could very easily get a job in vaudeville if they so desired.

It is a fact that those who work the hardest play the hardest when they get an opportunity—and Miss Lulu Shelton (who worked indefatigably in Sacramento for the increase in the elementary school money, which bill the governor signed this week), who is the president of the Oakland School Women's Club, is as enthusiastic over the party tomorrow night as if it were her very first one. The affair is to be purely a "Pete Reminisce"—the men of the school department and the girls' men friends are cordially invited to remain away.

CALIFORNIANS WIN NATIONAL RECOGNITION.

California carried off many honors at the recent convention of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations, held at Kansas City. Dr. Jessie Russell, state president of the California
Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations, was made chairman of two committees; one is to make a complete survey of all child welfare work throughout the United States, and a visiting commission, the other, a committee on revision of the constitution and by-laws of the national organization.
Dr. Russell was also made a member of the executive committee, a committee of vital importance this year, and for the work of which she expects to spend considerable time in Washington, being the only member residing away from the capital.

Another California woman, Mrs.
Hubert N. Rowell of Berkeley, national treasurer, was placed on the constitution revision committee. Mrs.
Jeremiah M. Rhodes of Pasadena, state chairman of education for the California congress, was elected national chairman of Americanization for the congress. Mrs. C. C.
Norris of Los Angeles was appointed national chairman of membership. California leads all states with a membership of approximately 20,000, thus having the largest child welfare organization in the United States.

DATE OF GIRLS' COUNCIL CHANGED.

The Girls' Council of the War Camp Community Service has been called for Thursday evening instead of Friday is Memorial Day.
The meeting will be from 6 to 8
p. m., enabling the girls to meet other evening engagements. A particularly interesting meeting is assured as Miss Mary McLeod, national field representative, will be present and speak. Mrs. D. S. Berg, chairman of the war savings stamps committee, will also say a few words.
These meetings are very informal and of value to the girls and to the club. They bring a basket supper with them—hot chocolate is served and business questions are discussed around the supper table.

Friday the girls' chorus will join in the Memorial Day program for Oakland. They will march in the parade—going out to Mountain View cemetery and joining in the musical program out there.

Dancing corps, attention! The fifth Saturday this month will be given to the Blue and Red Flying Corps, who go to the Defenders' Club and the White Corps will dance at the Girls' Division Club.

The Blue and Red Corps do not dance this Saturday any place.

HOME CLUB WILL GIVE DINNER DANCE.

Thursday evening, June 5, has been designated as the date of the last social meeting of the Home Club. It will take the form of a dinner dance, at which the incoming executive board will be the guests of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Broad will act as host and hostesses and Mr. Broad will assume the duties of toastmaster, introducing Mrs. Edward S. Hough, the new president, and the other officers, who are: Mrs. Joseph S. May, first vice-president; Robert B. Gaylord, second vice-president; Mrs. A. M.
Ree, third vice-president; Mrs. F.
R. Taylor, recording secretary; Mrs.
George S. Beadle, financial secretary; Mrs. C. L. Barham, treasurer; Mrs. George A. Cockerton, business secretary.

Short after-dinner speeches on the subject, "My City, The Home Club," "My City, Oakland," will be given by Robert Gaylord and by other guests of honor Dr. Daniel Crosby, president of the Oakland Board of Health; H. J. Bennett, executive secretary of the War Camp Community Service, and H. J. Brower, representing the war and navy department of community singing, will lead the club in singing. Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock. Reservations and cancellations must be made not later than Tuesday, June 3, at 4 o'clock.

Wednesday, May 28, a joint meeting of the cottage trustees and the incoming and retiring boards will be held to discuss plans for the future development of the club. The report of the retiring board will be read and the new president and board of directors duly installed.

ETUDE CLUB GOES MERRY-MAKING.

Since it is the season of merry-making the Etude Club of Berkeley claimed the privilege this week of forgetting serious study—and indulged in gay jinks and a basket luncheon on Monday. While the affair took place in the club rooms the members all appeared in sports clothes just as if it were a regular picnic. The decorations which were most elaborate, included an electric fountain, designed by William Brag-don. The Etude Choral contributed songs specially written for the jinks
by Walter Clark.

Regular study will be resumed by the club after the summer vacation.

Don't Cough Until Weak—

Elderly people and others who suffer from stubborn or chronic coughs that wear down the strength, lower vitality and disturb sleep, will find in Foley's Honey and Tar a most helpful and healing medicine.
The very first doses bring comfort and ease, as in it you get the curative influence of piner and other healing ingredients, together with the mollifying laxative effect of honey.

Foley's Honey and Tar is recommended also for bronchial and la grippe coughs, hoarseness, tickling throat, and stuffy, wheezy breathing. The wise mother knows it stops croup and it is just what children ought to have for feverish colds, coughs, "snuffles," whooping cough and measles cough. It contains no opiates.

"I was troubled with a cough, and would be completely exhausted after each fit of violent coughing.
I bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar and before I had taken it the coughing spell had entirely ceased. I wish to say it can't be beat." R. C.
Collins, Barre, N.H.

"My daughter had a bad case of chronic cough. We finally gave her Foley's Honey and Tar. Its effect was almost immediate for after a few days the trouble entirely disappeared and has not returned." Knudt Lee, Waukegan, Minn.

Simple Way to End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffier, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advertisement.

Six Pages From Wife's Diary

By JANE DIXON

Page 2—Flirtations I Have Had. Flirtations are either fun or they are funny. Confidentially speaking, friend diary, I have been a long while deciding just which is the correct word.

Now I believe I have more or less arrived at a conclusion. More, I hope. This is the conclusion: Flirtations were fun. Note the past tense. As I look at them today they are funny. By funny, of course, I mean ridiculous. When I longed to travel before I could register ridiculous!

For me there were plenty of flirtations. Most of them now are mere fragments of memory, and that is as it should be. The really vivid one—the one which looms up in all the lights and fantasy of a far-comedy—probably because it is most recent—was with Frank Anders.

Why Frank Anders should be called Frank I do not know, except for the fact that parents have the most incongruous notions in naming their children. This Frank is quite the most mysterious, the most baffling, the most non-committal man I have ever met, and fairly revels in mystery. If he orders a minute steak you suspect he and the waiter are plotting a Mexican revolution. The only thing Frank about Frank Anders is his name.

It all happened last summer. August was hot and I was tired and Jim was busy. Rather dangerous combination for a wife inclined to be restless. It was dangerous. Blessed past tense.

I met Frank one sweltering afternoon with some friends we both knew. He played up to me from the very first and I must confess I lost no time in playing right back at him. He suggested we all take a drive "up the road."

It was one of Jane's especially busy afternoons, sure to lapse far over into the evening. Good old Jim. When I asked him about it over the telephone I could hear him sizzling down there in his oven of an office, but he was as pleased with the idea of my having a good time as if he were about to have it himself. "By all means go," he said. "I'll be sure you get cooled off. It's hotter than the seven hinges of Hades here. Grab a little fresh air for the two of us."

I went. A swift, brow-fanned, body-sustaining glide over twilight roads, a picturesque place up the Hudson, a table in a leafy arbor on a cliff overlooking the river. Frank is full of such places. He has a new one for every day in the week. Environment, perhaps, but never make the mistake of discounting it. Frank Anders is a man who can get you set cooled off. It's hotter than the seven hinges of Hades here. Grab a little fresh air for the two of us.

He has a new one for every day in the week. Environment, perhaps, but never make the mistake of discounting it. Frank Anders is a man who can get you set cooled off. It's hotter than the seven hinges of Hades here. Grab a little fresh air for the two of us.

A few days after the drive I met Frank. We lunched together. The friends we both knew, were not present. Lunch was served in a secluded corner of an out-of-the-way nook in the park. The secluded corners that man knows! He must have been hunting them out for years. He has hunted well his collection is perfect.

About four o'clock, when I said farewell until day after tomorrow, Frank held me a long while. Then, quite suddenly, he kissed me. Thrilled? I had not enjoyed such an electric shock in years.

Jim's kisses are hurled at me as he is making a flying leap for the door in his customary morning effort not to be late at the office, and they are left to land where and how they will. On the day I kissed me, I determined Mrs. Frank was not only an unappreciative wife, but an absolutely stupid one.

And so we have been playing the game all winter. Frank and I—sometimes clandestinely, sometimes among friends—for we know pretty much the same people. Looking backward, I know that I have walked pretty close to the edge of the cliff. Thank God, Frank Anders has a coward's heart in a man's body.

Frank was rather a beast about the whole affair. I might have known he would be—a married man playing around with a married woman and causing an earth for other except their own selfishness and small vanity. He admitted he had been curious to see just how I could be led. He said he had a lot of extra time on his hands, that he was interested in women as a study, especially married women. They were less exacting in their demands and, besides, they always had to check in home around dinner time, which gave him the opportunity to punch his own time clock and keep the home fires burning.

The material is a sheer chiffon flowered with rosebuds and a touch of blue. The satin fluting is a sky blue very delicate and harmonious. Val lace and French flowers enrich the garment.—Copyright Underwood & Underwood.

Well, thank goodness, that chapter is closed. It was not my first affair, I accept this little book of big secrets, the gift of maternal happiness willing, it is my last. Adieu, flirtation!

There are seven wonders of the world and one more. The eighth is the married woman who must flirt.

How a woman with a perfectly sane, sober, industrious and devoted husband can take out a mortgage on her life's happiness by playing tag with a male vampire, who rolls his eyes and looks unutterable nothings, is more than the woman who has not been fortunate enough to acquire a wedding band or the woman who has been fortunate enough to acquire it and keep it shining can ever understand.

Casual folk are wont to excuse the frivolous mortgage by saying, "Oh, she is just a natural born flirt." Every woman is a natural born flirt, only some of us have respect enough for ourselves and for the man who gives the best of himself to the making of our happiness to slip on the halter and the hobble and call the name we have taken with the dignity it deserves.

If the flirtatious wife could only draw aside for a moment and view herself from the position of the audience! What a surprise would be in store for her! She is accustomed to think of herself as a heroine, the third point of an exciting triangle in which she, her husband and the other man are the acute angles. The more acute the angles the better she enjoys her role of heroine. The married flirt loves to be unhappy. Unhappy heroines are so much more interesting than the sort who stay home and endeavor initials on guest towels.

What, meantime, does the audience see? From this position the audience sees a silly, light-minded woman with loose morals and a careless feather in place of a heart. Her flirtations may be quite innocent, or as innocent as any married flirtation can be, but try to comprehend the world of such innocence! The world is old-fashioned and it comes to playing fast and loose with the most sacred bargain in life, the marriage bargain, that she should have chosen nearer her own age. The younger man has confirmed this suspicion.

The woman herself is no longer young. She is in love with love and in love with youth. The younger man does all the things she has dreamed her man should do. He dances well, frolics, dandles, dresses

The capture of Pskoff by the Estonians is really an important event and not at all one to be sneezed at.

The Bolshevik army has called for women volunteers. Must be planning to skirt the Omsk line.

With all of these famous men and women here speaking on child welfare a lot of us can't see that our babies are sleeping any better nights.

So far the luxury tax hasn't hit that joyful one that comes with mooching an auto ride to work.

The lady in the flat upstairs says that if the daylight savings law repeated she will have to buy a new alarm clock, as the old one is so nearly worn out it won't stand another shift.

The wife of a Scotch sporting editor has been riding with him in his new automobile. The fact may explain her remark on a street car when the switch box fuse blew out and the car stopped. "There," said she, "Bob has killed his engine again."

James E. Jones spent forty bones Upon a rod and reel, And twenty more from out his store Went for new flies and creel. Then by the creek he spent a week With that rare sport of kings, With newest wares for seven days We wooed the funny things.

Mickey Flynn was short and thin, A kid with freckled face His rod and line was stick and twine. He knew the fishing place. A whole week through these anglers two Stood fishing side by side, With sluck and twine and outfit fine They whipped the fertile tide.

The tale is through, and only thus I'd say before I'm done, That Jones caught forty whopping fish And Mickey not a one.

Jimmy—old-boy!

A LETTER-PLAY BY RICHARD WIGHTMAN

To J. O. B. HOMELAND Jim, there really isn't much use in going to musical comedy if one only has a few neighbors, and is able to see them as they are, and also has imagination enough to dress them up in fancy costumes and make them dance and sing.

Every small town in America contains enough amusement to keep the most exacting fun-lover busy for the rest of his life, if he's clever enough to see it. It's going on all around him night and day. And there are tragedies, too—enough to make one sober and sensible. Enough to keep one balanced and not let him tip over into the slough of mere foolishness.

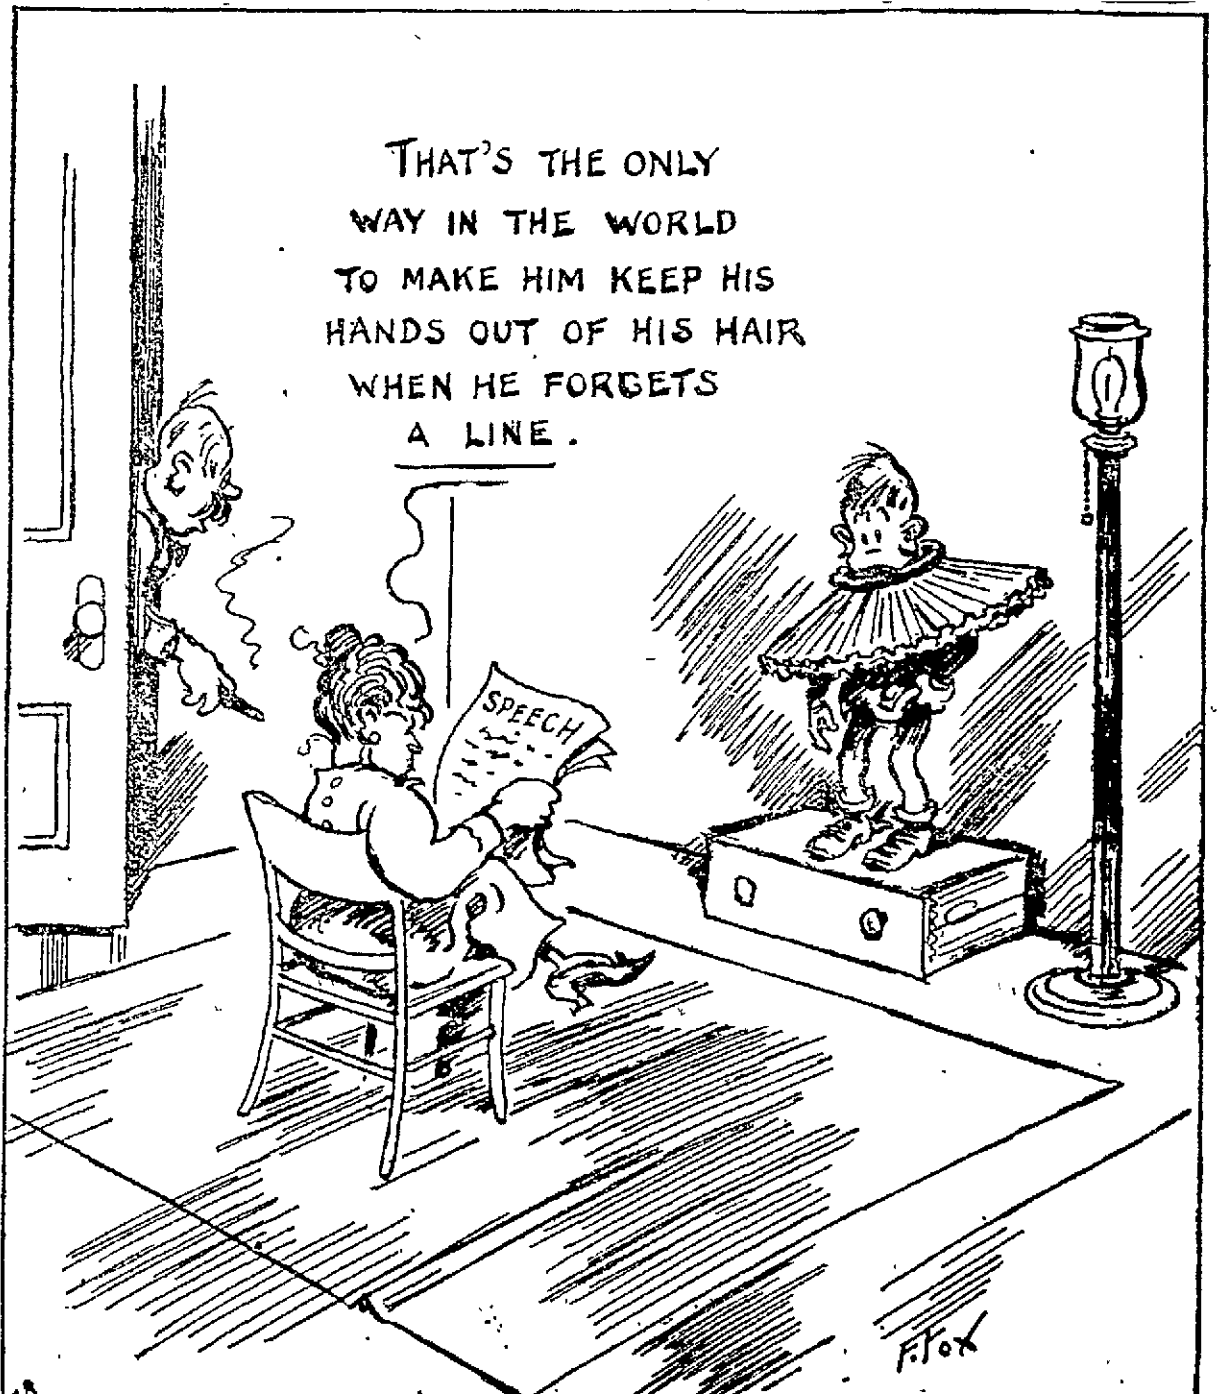

When you and Jane come out here sometime I'm going to ask Angell Platitude in to spend the evening. Angell has had his original teeth out and has got new ones—upstairs and down. They are as even as the kernels on a cob of corn and as white as a good reputation. They slip around a good deal but never actually get down and out. It takes up a good deal of Angell's time to keep them where they belong, but Angell has more time than anything else and apparently doesn't mind it.

Angell is entirely naked—of fads and sporting proclivities. To usher on public occasions and go to bed are his dear delight. He doesn't care for any other form of excitement. I tried to get him to a picture show one night but he said no, he "detested anything distorted or enlarged." That makes him the sworn enemy of his own liver, which is far from sound.

You and Jane will enjoy Angell. He's as good as a circus—at least as good as a three-ring one, which is only about one-third as good as the old-fashioned one-ring kind. M. L.

Mother Has Taken Up the Job of Rehearsing Jimmy's Commencement Oration

THAT'S THE ONLY WAY IN THE WORLD TO MAKE HIM KEEP HIS HANDS OUT OF HIS HAIR WHEN HE FORGETS A LINE.

We all WANT LOVE- and we want it NOW. I'd rather have a WILTED PANSY now than the finest wreath of hundred dollar ORCHIDS after I've moved on.

Good evening, You-all.

I am about to rise and make a speech—any one can do one growl, two grunts and a hup. I usually fill the first half of mine with ribald shouts on topics of the day. But this time I am discussing a tender, sweeter subject—I'm discussing ME. Am I if you think I'm going to throw any ribald shouts at myself you've not another fat guess coming. To be sure it's been done—but I never did it. I never spoke of myself in any but the kindest way and I'm going to keep right on. Moreover, I'm going to put new enthusiasm into the task, for at last I've found someone to agree with me. I've found several somebodies, little skinny envelopes, and they are telling me they like my stuff. Am I so that's why I'm speaking about ME tonight. Because, whoever you are and wherever you are, I want to thank you for doing it.

Writers are supposed to be strange birds with souls too mere human. I get all choked up at the most generous feeling I want to grab the whole town and have a procession with the band. So, I'm glad you like the Cheer-up Column and I'm awfully glad you told me so. Thanks—millions!

Do you know I think most folks like to be liked. And we like to be liked NOW. Did you ever look at people's eyes as you went along the street? Did you ever see all the lonesome, hunger-looking out at you? Did you ever stop to think how much it would mean to those nearest you if you suddenly broke loose some day and told them how much they meant to you?

Not in real oratory, you know—but just with one growl, two grunts and a hup. Any one can do one growl, two grunts and a hup. Try it and see if it would be any use. It's a funny old world. With all our civilization and wisdom, we never get far from where we started. We still want to feel someone's hand in the dark, we still want folks to smile over our curd faults and laugh at us as if we were little kiddies—which we are! We still want love and we want it NOW!

I won't care a hoot what people say about me when I have passed on to the Big Adventure. But I certainly appreciate neighborhood while I'm here. I'd rather have a wilted pansy now than the finest wreath of hundred-dollar orchids after I've moved on.

So if you have a kind thought for anyone stored away, SAY IT NOW! Tell the old wife what a good pal she has been through all these years. What if she did crab about the spots you made on the tablecloth and the way you put new enthusiasm into the task, for at last I've found someone to agree with me. I've found several somebodies, little skinny envelopes, and they are telling me they like my stuff. Am I so that's why I'm speaking about ME tonight. Wilted Black FOLKS AND THINGS

Wilted Black FOLKS AND THINGS. I know a woman who goes around the world with a rubber stamp in each hand—no, I mean in her mind. One of the stamps says "approval" and the other says "disapproval," and whenever you speak or sing or yawn or sigh or sneeze or shiver or laugh or cry or smile or nod or shake your head or walk or sit down or stand up or turn around, or do anything on earth in that woman's presence, you can just see her making up her mind which stamp she is going to use on you.

Approved—that you must be, and everything that you say or do or think or wish or hope or dread or pray, either approved or disapproved you are, in that woman's mind.

Do you like pink? If you're dark and pink is becoming to you the Stamp Woman approves of your liking, if you happen to be blond with a little red in your hair, she disapproves of it, and you might save her only child from death, nurse her through the fever, pay the mortgage on her grandfather's farm and go bail to get her twin brother out of jail, and she would never forget that she did not quite approve of you because you liked pink, and had no right to like it.

If you happen to think as she does about some perfectly insignificant thing, the Stamp Woman approves of you. And though you murder a sleeping infant, put poison in your own mother's tea, run out at night and steal the clothes off the neighbor's clothes line, she still remembers that she once stamped you "approved," and she will have forever a little liking for you, no matter what you are or what you do or do not do.

SHE WEIGHS EVERYTHING. Interest, a pleasant human curiosity, good-humored human tolerance, the broad view which takes a broad interest in humanity in general—these things the Stamp woman does not know exist—and if she did not know she would not "approve" of them.

She weighs everybody and everything on her funny little scales and measures everything and everybody in her queer little plat cup, and she never even knows she is doing it.

She can't smile at the non-sense of some nonsensical friend, and thank goodness somebody is light-hearted enough to laugh once in a while, even if she herself feels that the world is going to the demolition box-wheels along with her, and she never even knows she is doing it.

My friend, with the stamp mind doesn't approve of the woman across the way. The woman across the way has a son who isn't doing just as he should and she knows it and tries to pretend she doesn't, and the Stamp woman thinks she ought to telephone about it, and ask us to sympathize with her, and when the woman across the way says a little more the other day and had some flowers and tried to make herself believe she was having a good time, the Stamp Woman wouldn't go.

She stayed at home—and disapproved. There's a pretty girl in our neighborhood who has more admirers than she can always manage discreetly. Dear me, how the Stamp Woman does disapprove of her, and yet she's such a pretty, soft-eyed, smiling little thing—oh, you know her!—and she knows the wisdom of Solomon or the anxiety of Juno but I can't help wanting to grab her and give her a good squeeze every time I see her.

The Stamp Woman does not approve of the feeling like that, she thinks I show a lack of principle. The minister's wife is a musician and sometimes she practices in the morning before the house it quite tidy.

OLD AND CAREWORN. I love to hear her shine, bless her generous heart! she shines out of the fullness of her joy of living, but the Stamp Woman does not approve of her; she thinks the shining so early in the morning must be a great cross to the minister the other day, and he didn't like it.

Since then the Stamp Woman has not been so kind. I don't wonder the Stamp Woman looks old and careworn before her time. I'd hate to feel so responsible for people all the time—wouldn't you?

A new kind of music and a new kind of musical instrument came into existence as a result of Lt. John Philip Sousa, having written his new march, "The Volunteers." The music is in the new piece and the new instrument, the effect of an electric riveting hammer. The musical riveter will be an addition to the drummer's traps, and is designed for some remarkable volume effects for special use in "The Volunteers."

That later in the evening," she said, "I shall get you to myself for a few minutes, and do you explain to Dicky that something has come up which has postponed the historical work for which I told him I wanted your help. I don't think he will be sorry. Now for the kitchen. No need of guarding the library or closets."

She slipped the heavy bolts which I had noticed in the outside of the closet door, and went downstairs to the kitchen with me beside her in feet, yet far away in thought.

For besting my mind was the query. Why is Lillian so certain Harry Underwood will keep Grace Draper from harming me? "Well, Lillian, this is sure some party!" Dicky sprawled at ease before the glowing fire in Lillian Underwood's library. He was smoking his favorite brand of cigar, and I knew from the expression on his face that he was well content with his surroundings. Lillian smiled at him brightly. "Of course it is," she said. "Did you ever know a party of mine that wasn't?" "Hasn't she the crust though?" Dicky demanded lazily. "Katherine Sonnot, Jack Blackett and me."

CZECHOSLOVAK
BIG WELCOME

Oakland officially welcomed today the six officers and ninety-four privates who make up the first contingent of 3000 Czechoslovak soldiers who are scheduled to pass through the bay cities en route to their native land which war has transformed from Bohemia into the Republic of Czechoslovakia. Automobiles met the veterans upon their arrival from the Presidio, where they are billeted, and escorted them to the city. They were taken on a scenic tour of the vicinity. A page was made while Mayor Davis formally welcomed the men to Oakland.

After a luncheon under the command of Major Dushak, All have been wounded several times, and many are covered with medals won for valor in action. Among the 100 who arrived from Siberia yesterday were 1000 Czechoslovak soldiers on their journey homeward through the United States are those who have lost their arms or legs and many are blinded for life. Several were among the first Czechoslovak soldiers to enter the first year through Russia and France to offer their services to the allies. In all the time of their absence from their homes they have been paid for their services, presents or money from their kin.

Forced to fight under emperors whom they hated at the beginning of the war, they later joined the early Russian troops to be the first to enter the city of Vienna. During the past two years in the service of their new nation they have helped to check the Bolshevik movement in Siberia and protected the Trans-Siberian Railway from the Japanese. They numbered 4000 units. Before they received their commission to fight against Austria and Germany they guarded fertile country and prevented the seizure of foodstuffs by the enemy. They were also in the guard division of the Hun, and kept open the lines of

Up to the present time, the Hungarian government these veterans of four years were called upon to preserve order.

The 3,000,000 Czechoslovaks in the United States will give this viewpoint of returning heroes a respectful passage across the continent.

They leave the Presidio tomorrow night on route to New York.

NEEDHAMMAN WILL FIGHT SUSPENSION

Former Police Chief J. H. Needhamman has filed an appeal with the Civil Service board from his suspension, ordered by Chief of Police J. H. Lynch recommending a disposition of the police craft officers, in which he is under indictment by grand jury. Needhamman was suspended in his rank as sergeant following his resignation as chief. He feels that he cannot be readily relieved of duty on an indictment.

The board will hold a hearing two weeks from today to take up the matter in detail, when legal authorities and other angles will be considered in the case. If Needhamman is restored to duty, the board holds it will be a precedent which will also affect Commissioner Thomas O'Neill, indicted police

Merchant's Exchange Favors Road Bonds

Enthusiastic endorsement of the proposed $100,000 bond issue for state road improvement was given by the Merchant's Exchange of this city at its meeting last night, and the members agreed to aid in every way they can in interesting the public in the project and getting voters to support it at the polls on July 4.

A committee of five members was appointed for the purpose of starting a campaign in the interest of the proposed bond issue: H. Spiro, H. G. Williams and J. P. Potter.

The Exchange moved into its new quarters on the second floor of the State Savings Bank building, Thirteenth and Franklin streets, today.

Persons carrying members of a moving company, recently organized, were overthrown and threw out the thirteen passengers, Miss Edna Gaynor, 17, an actress, and George C. Field, a cameraman, were killed. The other passengers were injured.

P. De Kuyser, Mrs. Ethel Dunn,

VACATIONS FOR HEROES SCARCE

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Training for returned soldiers is made intensive and as nearly continuous as possible in order that full wage-earning employment may be secured as early as expedient. For this reason the Federal Board for Vocational Education does not encourage vacations for men taking re-education courses.

However, some men are being trained in institutions where courses cannot be so rearranged during vacation periods, and in addition the physical condition of some of the men demand a rest period. These two classes of men are allowed, during such vacation periods, the same payments to which they are entitled while in actual attendance upon their courses.

The board, however, will encourage men whose physical condition permits, to continue their training during the months the schools and colleges are closed, by engaging in some occupation related to the formal training course they are pursuing. Men who are being trained on the job will be allowed no vacation with pay, unless their physical condition, according to the advice of a medical officer, requires it.

Sunday if he came home for dinner he would be "thrashed out of his life."

WOMAN MARRIES AS PROFESSIONAL TARGET.

Mrs. Olive Bond Peterson Smith Fergusson, etc., has adopted marriage as a vocation, according to the testimony of Captain Robert Fergusson, one of her many husbands, in his suit for annulment of marriage. The annulment was granted.

She says that his wife has had at least seven husbands, although he only knew the names of three beside himself. She acquired money in these marriages and then moved away in search of another victim. She has three children. Her former wife is now in Seattle.

Captain Fergusson is captain of a vessel which makes regular trans-Atlantic voyages.

A LITTLE NAVY MAN AGAIN.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels has recommended to Congress abandonment of plans for an adequately defensive navy. In explaining his action he declares that he has assurances from Premier David Lloyd George of Great Britain and other European statesmen that they are planning to follow the lead of the United States, and "that it is the wisest policy not to enter into any large construction program until the League of Nations meets." "America has only two courses," says Mr. Daniels, "either to build the biggest navy in the world or we must have the League of Nations."

Certainly this is a curious statement of the formula of a naval policy for this country, a most amazing conception of the logic of a naval policy. Why is America limited to one of those two courses or bound to adopt or ignore either one of them? If we go without the League of Nations, must we support the biggest navy in the world as a kind of penalty?

Is Mr. Daniels trying to intimidate that small group of citizens who cry out against any naval defenses at all, and that much larger group that believes in the construction and maintenance of a naval force to safeguard efficiently the shores and interests of the United States in case of attack from a foreign power, into support of the League of Nations? Is the League of Nations to be translated into an argument for the little navy Democrats of the Congress and the administration?

The League of Nations should be left out of consideration in determining plans for adequate naval defenses. The league idea is all right as far as it goes. It is a happy rhetorical expression of desires and intentions. If adopted in its present form it will have some influence, a large influence it is to be hoped, for faithfulness to contracts on the part of governments. In that it will help a little, possibly much. It may decrease considerably the danger to future acts of aggressions and armed conflicts.

But at best it can be expected to serve only as an auxiliary to the national defenses of the United States. It may work excellently for a while as a political front line in which the quarrels of nations may probably, but not certainly, be adjusted without bloodshed.

The League of Nations as at present drafted and interwoven in the proposed peace treaty with Germany is a strong ally and effective anti-German instrument. As such it is to be praised.

But it is altogether too early to begin shaping our domestic policy of national defense with reference to League of Nations' promises. The new covenant has not been approved by a single nation. While the Allied representatives in Paris have unanimously agreed upon the form of the contract, no parliamentary body has even been asked to express an opinion either upon the idea or the textual provisions of the League of Nations covenant. The nearest approach to a parliamentary expression was the statement by forty members of the majority party in the United States Senate, and that was in opposition to the league.

Even while Mr. Daniels was making his statement to the House naval affairs committee yesterday the country was reading and pondering over the possible effect of the wantonly demagogic appeal to prejudice of Senator Reed of Missouri, a Democrat, in opposition to the league.

The League of Nations compact and the peace treaty should be considered on their respective native merits. The administration at Washington should not be permitted to compromise American national policies by intimately coupling them with the League of Nations in advance of acceptance of the latter project by the Congress. Mr. Daniels has shown the government's hand. He should be called.

An official statement by the chief of staff of the army shows that over 2,200,000 soldiers have been returned to their homes under the demobilization program inaugurated shortly after the signing of the armistice. This is about 65 per cent of the military strength in November last. Over 1,000,000 have been brought home from Europe. Possibly this performance could have been surpassed. But considering the advantage of not working so precipitately as to cause confusion and failure to give proper attention to the men scheduled for transfer and discharge, it seems to deserve the verdict of "satisfactory." The chief of staff reports that under the schedule of movements drawn up by General Pershing all of the expeditionary army in Europe except the regular establishments will have left for home by June 12. Thus it is likely that the drafted men and volunteers for war service only will be either discharged or in home camps awaiting discharge by the time the preliminary peace treaty is signed. In view of this prospect it is not fitting to interpret the few stentorian demands to "bring the soldiers home" as indicating a serious shortcoming on the part of the army administration.

A UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT.

The University of California is a State institution of popular higher education. About 5000 young men and women attend it each year upon the assumption that they will there learn how to be straight-thinking citizens of the future. The people pay taxes for a large part of its support and sustain the exemption of much taxable property because the earnings go to meet another portion of the cost.

Therefore there is a general public interest in the matter of the selection of a successor to President Benjamin Ide Wheeler, whose resignation takes effect July 1 next. President Wheeler tendered his resignation several months ago, but the board of regents have not yet announced the name of the educator who is to succeed him. The regents have not said much about the matter. They seem to be proceeding under the idea that it is solely their affair and of no concern to the general public.

Some of the names permitted to be mentioned as candidates under consideration have caused not a little concern on the part of the citizens interested in the university. For instance, one man so complimented is known to be the victim of an incurably narrow and egotistic habit of thinking that disqualifies him for so important a position in the educational system of the State. Another "possible candidate" is a young man whose academic qualifications are utterly inadequate. He was given "threes" by several of the present faculty of the university, and it would be an affront to the faculty body and academic circles everywhere to name him president. If they can go no further, the regents might give some little encouragement by announcing the elimination of undesirable candidates from the list of those who have been mentioned.

Presumably the board of regents are making every reasonable effort to find a man who will meet their conception of the requirements of a president of the university. But whether they have in mind an educator of acknowledged scholarly attainments and executive ability who would insist upon a free hand in running the university, or a man who would be pliant under board of regents' politics such as reigned before President Wheeler took charge, is not known. This ought to be evident shortly, for surely a vacancy in the presidency of one of the largest universities in the world will not be permitted long to exist.

ACROSS THE OCEAN BY AIR.

Navy seaplane NC-4, Lieutenant Commander Read, has arrived in the mouth of the historic River Tagus, Portugal, and the people of Lisbon have been privileged to greet the Stars and Stripes as the first flag to be carried across the Atlantic ocean by aircraft. The time of the flight from Ponta Delgada, Azores, was a few minutes more than nine hours, making the actual flying time of the entire transoceanic flight from Trassey, Newfoundland, about twenty-six hours and forty minutes.

When this American-built and manned seaplane reached the continent of Europe it marked the culminating event in a series of performances during the last three weeks that have written a new epoch in the achievements of man. Since leaving Rockaway Beach, May 8, the NC-4 has made 3150 nautical miles in forty-six hours actual flying time. This was a long and hard test of the speed, stamina and endurance of the naval seaplane. The flight from Newfoundland to the Azores—1200 miles—was a test of daring and faith on the part of the men who undertook the journey. It was not as full of danger as the feat Hawker and Grieve tried to accomplish, but was sufficient.

Shades of noble heroes of past centuries welcomed the Americans when they dropped into the Tagus. Navigators of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries who rounded Cape of Good Hope and explored India and Malaysia, the venturesome host immortalized in the epic poem of Camoens; Christopher Columbus, who 436 years ago left the romantic harbor in small sailing vessels to dare the unknown furies supposed to lie to the westward; those men of the period of Portugal's glory when the world was taught navigation of the high seas. The coming of the NC-4 showed how the thing might be done quickly—the special mission of American genius.

Town Trustee Beatrice L. Hollenbeck, Deputy Marshal and Tax Collector Mary Yates and Treasurer Martha Anderson of Pacific Grove, California, are polite and possibly pretty answers to the question, "Will women seek political office?"

NOTES and COMMENT

There isn't much doubt that the State University and all institutions of learning will find it possible to secure a full complement of teachers and poets of standard patriotism. That this has not always been done may be due more to inadvertence than to scarcity of instructors able to thus qualify.

The woman hiker across the continent has reached town from the south, and will soon be on her way north. Hiking across has been done by so many and so seriously that the populace is entitled to be excited if the feat no longer produces a furor; but there is no objection to its being done again, or even to a woman attempting it.

It was rather expected there would be some such complication—the Ohio legislature is enacting a law that will give the governor authority to revoke the permit given by the Toledo boxing commission for the Dempsey-Willard match. Verily, the prize fight has nowhere to pitch its ring.

Such Progressives as Gifford Pinchot and Senator Johnson are in a way to see how the world is coming to an end. The motion of the California senator, in caucus, that Boies Penrose be sidetracked as chairman of the finance committee of the senate, was defeated, 25 to 5.

It is very possible that the health test for cooks and waiters, proposed by the Cooks' and Waiters' Union, is a wise plan. Those who handle food can't be too healthy. And it is reasonably certain that some of them at times are not in the pink of condition.

Our California volcano, which we like to refer to as the only one in the United States, and which emits smoke and vapors intermittently, cuts a rather sorry figure in the spectacular way by the side of the Javan mountain that suddenly burst over the rim and killed 15,000. Our exhibit must be classed as the garden variety.

Those who may have been inclined to class Texas as wild and woolly will now have to proof-read themselves. Last Saturday's election indicates that both prohibition and woman suffrage were carried, though the latter seems to have been rather a tight fit.

Though Oregon is pre-eminently a water State, it will soon see that it can't even stand that. At least there is a despatch that tells about a young man drowning in four feet of water.

The simple, and as it appears reasonable, motion of Senator Johnson that the State Department furnish Congress a full text copy of the peace treaty was enough to start off Senator Reed. But then, anything seems to be sufficient to start off Senator Reed.

The rejoicing and satisfaction that is generally manifest over the rescue of Aviator Hawker and his engineer is one of the pleasant evidences of human sympathy that wells up when a genuine occasion offers. Plucky men failed in a mighty undertaking, and that they did not lose their lives is a great satisfaction to admirers of daring and bravery.

A singular outcome of the war is that Turkey is emerging with the least burdens of any of the chief belligerents. It is probable that she has not so much injured because she has not so much to injure. It is not likely that she is in position to greatly enjoy her light load, however. There will be no tendency hereafter to nurse the sick man along.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

Will C. Wood, in an address on the League of Nations delivered in this city last Sunday, declared that the constitution of the league ranked with the Magna Carta, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. For our part, we prefer the Sermon on the Mount to any of the others. Even though a wicked world refuses to live up to it, no one has had the temerity to suggest that it be amended. As to the Constitution of the United States, when the cranks have finished adding summary amendments to it, it will look like a police ordinance.—Fresno Mirror.

Among the most aggravated pests in the world today are those persons, male and female, who thrust their feet into the backs of people seated in the row ahead of them at the movies. They are even more annoying than those who cough and sneeze in the faces of others, or who explain the pictures so loudly they are heard all over the theater.—Sacramento Bee.

Under our patchwork system of road maintenance the taxpayers of Napa county annually contribute money for the furnishing and putting on of material that is blown away before the next year's tax is available for the same purpose. This means fair wheeling for a small section of the year, wretched going the most of the year, and a cry of "no money" when better conditions are demanded all the year round. Argument in favor of the highway bonds.—Napa Register.

San Jose women will be able to lord it over the more unfortunate members of their sex within a short time. The Retail Shoevenders' Association will have the new styles of footwear on display in this city during their convention, and local women will at least have the advantage of taking a look at a new pair of shoes.—San Jose Mercury-Herald.

Whatever is the world coming to? Here is Governor Stephens going and signing a bill and thus making a law that demands that attorneys must have studied law for three years. Will the authorities, our public servants as it were, never grow weary of trampling upon the rights of the common people?—Bakersfield Californian.

That Skull in the Peace Treaty

"Germany is to restore within six months . . . the skull of the Sultan Okkawa, formerly in German East Africa, to his Britannic majesty's government."

"This sentence from the official summary of the peace treaty presented to the Germans at Versailles set off official Washington wondering and swamped libraries and scientific institutions in the capital with inquiries," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

"Among some tribes of Africa, including German East Africa, skulls of former rulers, called sultans, are held in high veneration, and their possession often is of marked political value."

"There are numerous tribes in German East Africa alone, and as many of these sultans as there are tribes. It is apparent that Sultan Okkawa was a sort of Mohammedan or Confucius among his clansmen, and that the nation which assumes sovereignty over the people who revere his memory, and probably worship his skeletal remains, will be received with greater friendliness if it can restore the precious talisman."

"Furthermore, the removal of the skull sheds a sidelight upon the long arm of German propaganda, reaching even into darkest Africa in contemplation of 'der tag' of Prussia's day under the scorching equatorial sun."

"The German government contributed a goodly sum for an expedition headed by Adolphus Frederick, Duke of Mecklenburg, which ostensibly made a scientific study of the German protectorate in Africa in 1907-08."

"There is good reason to believe that the explorers were not wholly unaware of political advantages and by way of a tribal coup d'etat took away with them the skull which now has gained such unlooked-for publicity."

"The duke wrote a book about his travels in which he states, in summarizing the results of his expedition, that '1017 skulls and about 1000 ethnographical were collected.'"

"He describes visits to various 'sultans.' At one point he digressed from botany and linguistics to give this naive comment on German policy: 'It is desired to strengthen and enrich the sultan and persons in authority, and to increase thereby their interest in the continuance of German rule. At the same time, by steadily controlling and directing the sultan and using his powers, civilizing influences would be introduced. Thus by degrees, and almost imperceptibly to the sultan himself, he eventually becomes nothing less than the executive instrument of the Resident (German governor).'"

"But Germany's early policy in her African colonial expansion was marked by no such adroit methods; rather by just such disregard of native customs and ruthless measures as that indicated by her removal of the skull referred to in the treaty. Karl Peters, one of the first Germans to seek to exploit African resources, instituted such a reign of terror among the natives by inhuman treatment and especially by wholesale murders of their women, that the German government was compelled to remove his commission until the storm of civilized protest blew over."

"But Peters was soon restored and other bureaucratic German officials rudely deposed native rulers, instead of cooperating with them as did the British, and thus incited numerous native uprisings. One of these, in 1908, cost nearly 125,000 native lives before the Africans succumbed to the same sort of terrorism as that instituted in Belgium in 1914."

"The duke commented on the generosity of the natives in presenting gifts, but noted that 'yet the purchase of ethnographical material met with obstinate opposition.' He explained that each clan reveres some totem, believing that the spirit of the deceased enters those objects of reverence."

"The totem is just as apt to be an animal, or part of an animal—the duke mentions the toad, crested crane, the leopard and the goat—as a skull. Incidentally, this fact helps explain the reverence of the old-time Southern dandy for such tokens as the left hind leg of a graveyard rabbit caught on a dark night."

What are thy dreams?
The distant echo of a heavenly song,
A glimpse of color from the rainbow's bow'd throne,
A whisper from an Angel's voice,
Bidding thee strive till thou art

DID HE YELL "MURDER"?
Now that Chancellor Schelemann has denounced the Treaty of Versailles as "a murderous scheme," perhaps some of his compatriots will be asked whether in the old days of German imperialism when he was a leader of the Socialists he made any protest against the peace imposed upon Rumania by which its oil, wheat and coal were monopolized by the conqueror. If he yelled "Murder!" then nobody heard him.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

The Shoulder-Blade Exercise
Fine Lung Development
BY DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D.
(Johns Hopkins University.)

To develop a strong pair of lungs which can draw in the air deeply, it is essential to have a well developed chest in which those lungs can freely expand. A broad chest is largely dependent upon the position of the shoulders. If you can manage always to hold these back in a firm position, your chest will almost invariably be thrown forward and held in an upward position.

The shoulder blades exercise will greatly help to develop the muscles of the shoulders and make them firm and strong and able to stand the strain of being erect. It will also help to correct a set of lazy, drooping muscles which allow the shoulders to stoop forward and as a result also permit the chest to drop and become "hollow."

When you perform the shoulder-blade exercise stand erect with your feet nearly together and your palms brought together above the head. Your elbows will thus assume a curved position, your wrists will repose flat on your head, and your hands will assume the attitude of prayer. You will immediately feel a strain down your spine at the shoulder blades in the back below the arms, and also all the way from the tips of your fingers to the very pit of your arms. This feeling of strain is indicative of the fact that you are benefiting by your exercise and your muscles are becoming stronger.

In the second position of this exercise your arms are thrown outward and your elbows are bent. Keep the arms on a line with the shoulders and turn the palms forward. Your entire attitude is that of a man at whom a pistol is pointed and the command "hands up" has been given. Your mechanism must always be erect from the toes to the head. Hold this position for a few seconds and then return to the first position with your hands on your head, in prayerful attitude and your arms thrown as far back as possible. Repeat these movements about ten times, and as you do so you will feel the shoulder blades moving up and down.

Correctly to learn the shoulder blade exercise, perform the first few movements before a mirror so as to be sure to attain the proper posture. After this you can do the exercises more forcibly and with greater rapidity. Do not perform the exercises so forcibly, however, as to make the collar bone project at its junction with the breast bone. A good way to test this condition is to feel that your neck at its base does not experience strain. When you throw your hands and the forearms back be sure that the force of the motion comes at the elbows and at the hands, and that the shoulders are carried as far back as possible. The first step in the movements of the shoulder blade exercise is completed by the proper breath-taking exercise. Stand erect, with feet nearly together, as you did at the beginning of the other movements. Bend the chin down and let the arms come forward and downward in a somewhat hanging position. Do not let the muscles of the arms feel any strain, and let the hands touch back to back.

A complete respiratory movement should be made on ten counts. Your method should be carefully noted in a large-sized mirror. When you have made your various movements accurately you will have developed a method of forcible breathing. As you continue the exercise be sure that you begin to breathe deeply and forcibly as soon as you raise your hands. Hold the breath as long as possible. Learn to exhale forcibly when your arms are coming down, so that you bring into play the muscles of natural forced respiration.

BANDIT GANG NOW BROKEN UP POLICE BELIEVE

Remnants of a "hokup ring" that had planned to extend its operations on both sides of the bay, are being investigated today, following the capture of four suspects, and a chase in San Francisco over hotel roofs when the last of the prisoners was wounded and arrested.

Percy Randolph, of Oakland, chauffeur and paroled convict, who had been given a ten-year term from this county and later was freed, and Frank Barton, a negro, also of Oakland and a paroled convict, are the prisoners from this side of the bay. Frank Lederman, who the police say was the leader of the band and whom they refer to as the "Master Crackerjack," and Elmer Sanborn, nineteen years old, the youth wounded in the hotel roof chase yesterday, are the San Francisco prisoners.

CAPTURE FOLLOWS BIG THEFT.
The captures followed the robbery of the home of E. W. Hadley, 2438 Mill street, San Francisco, Monday morning, when members of the household were bound and gagged, and $300 stolen. Police investigation led to Oakland to Randolph, the chauffeur, who had been employed by the Hadleys, and through Randolph to Barton. The two were quietly picked up Monday afternoon by Detectives McLaughlin and Bunker, and investigation connected them with the two men in San Francisco.

According to the police Sanborn had been located at noon in a rooming house at 553 Pine street. He escaped there, and while detectives were shadowing him, he hurried to the Elite Hotel, Taylor and Turk streets, where Lederman was, and arrived in time to see the other man's arrest. He leaped from the window and hurried across the roof of the other building, not heeding the orders of detectives to halt or the fusillade of shots that followed. One shot took effect and he tumbled into the light shaft. Inside the building, he crawled into a room and hid under a table. Here he was pointed out to the police and taken into custody. He is at the Central Emergency Hospital under guard. The boy is the only one of the quartet without a criminal past record, according to the police.

RANDOLPH GIVES DETAILS.
Full details of the band have been given the police by Randolph, the Oakland prisoner, they say. Randolph says, according to the detectives, that it was he who led the bandits into the Hadley home. Lederman, he says, was the commander of the band. Yesterday when taken to San Francisco, Randolph led the police to a rooming house where Sanborn lived, and a note book found in his possession, was found to bear the entry "114 Geary Street." This was the Elite hotel.

While the detectives were questioning him the youth suddenly leaped through the window. The de-

Mrs. Stocker Made 'Scene,' Is Charge Terrible Row in Cafe, Says Witness "Dear Old Pal, Maud," Testifies

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—The account of an alleged quarrel between Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker, daughter of the late "Lucky" Baldwin, and her business manager, Walter McGinley, because he danced with another woman in the Peacock room at Tailor's in San Francisco opened today's proceedings in the Stocker trial. Mrs. Stocker is charged with being incompetent to handle her large estate. The charge is made by her son, Albert Snyder.

Mrs. Maud Smith, known already in the court records as Mrs. Stocker's "dear old pal, Maud," told the story of the scene in the San Francisco restaurant. She said:

Mrs. Stocker, Walter McGinley, Mr. Mullender's sister and I had dined at Teague's in San Francisco. Then we went over to the Peacock room at Tailor's. We were drinking and dancing a little. Mr. McGinley was dancing with Mr. Mullender's sister. Mrs. Stocker threw her cocktail glass on the table, scattering the drink everywhere, and shouted: "Walter, come here. Walter, come here." There was a terrible row.

Mrs. Stocker called the other woman all kinds of names and said she could not ride home with her in her auto, so the woman had to take a taxi.

Mrs. Stocker appeared in the courtroom today in the role of spectator. She was magnificently gowned in a black, brocade costume, heavily spangled with jewels.

Mrs. Smith, who described herself as a former companion to Mrs. Stocker, told of numerous trips to the house of the late "Lucky" Baldwin, who had Randolph with them as a prisoner, were unable to follow, so he made his way to the street as he made his way to the Elite, where he was later captured.

Mrs. Maud Smith, who described herself as a former companion to Mrs. Stocker, told of numerous trips to the house of the late "Lucky" Baldwin, who had Randolph with them as a prisoner, were unable to follow, so he made his way to the street as he made his way to the Elite, where he was later captured.

Lake Tahoe, Paso Robles and San Francisco of the trial to present Robles, she testified, she occupied the "poppy room" of the private car and Mrs. Stocker and McGinley occupied the "rose room."

Mrs. Stocker was so infuriated with McGinley, according to Mrs. Smith's testimony, that she spent $3000 for a surgical operation to remove wrinkles from her face.

"And why did she do this?" Attorney Le Roy Edwards, counsel for the plaintiff, asked.

"So that she would look better to Walter," Mrs. Smith replied.

Mrs. Smith told how she had endeavored to convince Mrs. Stocker that McGinley was a married man. She said she and Mrs. Stocker secured a room in an apartment house at Ocean Park overlooking McGinley's home, where they spent the night. Early in the morning they arose, she testified, and "we observed" the activities about the place.

McGinley went out, boed in the garden and worked among the flowers. A woman was with him most of the time. Finally he kissed her good-by and drove away in his car.

Seeing that Mrs. Stocker said to me: "Well, I don't believe that she's his wife. I don't think much of her looks anyhow. Walter tells me he is going to marry her, and I have to believe him at least half the time, because when I am with him he has me hypnotized."

Mrs. Estelle Snyder, former wife of McGinley, testified regarding the alleged flattery of McGinley, who, according to counsel for Snyder, had been given more than $1,000,000 by the heiress.

Mrs. Stocker said that when she, Mrs. Stocker and McGinley were dining in a Los Angeles restaurant in 1915, McGinley told Mrs. Stocker he had carried her photograph "next his heart" for twenty-five years.

McGinley told her, the witness said, "she looked as she did when the picture was taken."

"Is Mrs. Stocker susceptible to flattery?" asked Le Roy M. Edwards of Snyder's counsel.

"Very much so," was the reply.

150 Soldiers Given Meal by Red Cross
One hundred and fifty men from Camp Dix reached the Oakland morning shortly after 7 o'clock this morning and after being served with a hot breakfast at the Red Cross hotel, the men proceeded at 8:10 a. m. to the Presidio in San Francisco. Fifty men from Camp Kearny are to arrive this evening by boat. At 6:20 p. m. 25 men are expected from Del Norte, 33 from Camp Mills and 53 from Camp Dix.

ALL VETERANS ARE URGED TO JOIN PARADE

Veterans of the allied armies will join next Friday in the observance of Memorial day, according to an announcement made by Captain Walter J. Peterson, grand marshal of the Memorial day parade. The combined veterans societies of Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley, the G. A. R. veterans, veterans of foreign wars, veterans of Alameda county, veterans of the war with Germany, and veterans of the allied armies will be represented in a downtown parade which will leave the city hall at 9:30 a. m.

Everyone who has served in the armed forces of the United States or any of her allies during the war with Germany is urged to report at the city hall at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning, in uniform if possible. Although it is expected that a large contingent of veterans in civilian attire will take part in the parade.

"In tribute to our comrades who left in France for all time, as well as the dead heroes of other wars," said Peterson in announcing the details of the parade, "it is incumbent upon every single veteran of this city to parade."

After the parade, services will be conducted by the younger veterans at Mountain View cemetery at 9:30 o'clock. At 10:30 o'clock, the younger veterans will meet at the cemetery gate and escort the G. A. R. to the G. A. R. plot, where services will be held beginning at 10:40 o'clock.

The downtown parade will end at Twenty-fourth and Broadway. At this point street cars will take the participants to Mountain View cemetery for the 9:30 o'clock service.

In the afternoon the G. A. R. and Women's Auxiliaries will hold services at Evergreen cemetery, East Oakland, where the G. A. R. and Pacific local trains to Havensport.

The formation of the parade will include a platoon of police, detachments of the Oakland Police, and detachments of the G. A. R. and Women's Auxiliaries.

NO WRONG IN FORGED CHECK, GIRL THOUGHT

ALAMEDA, May 28.—Dorothy Mohr, 18-year-old Alameda maid, who was taken to the Detention Home in Oakland yesterday afternoon after she had forged the name of her father, G. Mohr, to numerous checks, had no trouble in getting her paper cashed in Alameda stores and even in the bank where her father carries a deposit. Mohr is a housekeeper and a widow, her wife dying two years ago. Motherless Dorothy has been her father's housekeeper. The father gave her money in check form until the girl learned the details of check writing, owing to copying accurately the "German G" with which her father wrote his initials.

In all some thirty or forty fictitious checks are supposed to have been uttered by the girl, who bought supplies for the house, shoes for her 12-year-old brother, clothes for herself, tennis rackets and many other personal effects. She suddenly appeared as Lady Hamilton for the McKinley park ball team and presented the winning team with pearl-handled knives, paying $10 for nine knives with a check she wrote and cashed with a local hardware firm.

When Dorothy wanted beefsteak for supper she wrote a check large enough to pay for the steak and leave her a tidy bit of spending money. Her checks are said to run all the way from a dollar to $50. The girl does not appear to realize that she has committed an offense, but says she just thought she was spending her father's money.

She was arrested on Encinal avenue. She says that she sleeps home at night, but spends most of her time on the street visiting friends. She has a cousin, Edna Samuel, the daughter of W. J. Samuel, foreman of the street department. Edna Samuel is also a motherless girl and the two have been together much of the time of late. Edna Samuel is a student in the school of the city.

Talented Blind Girl Will Enter U. C. and Become Modern Portia Despite Handicap Miss Bernice La Flamme Wins Honors

BERKELEY, May 28.—Undaunted by a handicap of blindness, Miss Bernice La Flamme, 17-year-old member of the June graduating class at Berkeley High school, will enter the University of California next fall as the first step toward becoming a modern Portia.

Miss La Flamme intends taking the entire jurisprudence course, and declares she will follow the profession of attorney. To fit her in the work she has equipped herself as a court stenographer, and through her Braille method of reading and writing can take and transcribe dictation at a fast rate of speed.

One of the youngest members of this year's graduating class at Berkeley High school, Miss La Flamme bears the distinction of being one of the most brilliant students at the school as well. She sees no great obstacles in her way in her chosen path and declares that she will succeed.

WILL MAKE GOOD.
"I have never had my sight, so I know nothing of other ways of doing things," she says. "Of course I shall make good."

As evidence of her determination to do things as other people did them, Miss La Flamme gave up her studies at the California school for the Deaf and Blind last year and entered Berkeley High school. Her blind books she discarded and regular text books used by other students took their place. At night her mother, Mrs. Mary La Flamme, became her daughter's eyes, and she read while Bernice absorbed the knowledge thus held out. As a result the little blind girl is graduating with the honor students of her class, easily completing her studies in the same time allotted to seeing pupils.

In addition to her brilliancy as a student, Miss La Flamme possesses unusual gifts as a musician. Triple accomplishments she claims, being an artist on the piano, organ and violin. When but 12 years old she climbed to the seat of a great organ in Festival Hall at the Panama-Pacific Exposition and played to thousands at a concert which attracted wide attention. Next to her music, mathematics is her chief hobby. Her mother, the problem solver, the better she is satisfied.

Her musical gifts, Miss La Flamme declares, are compensation for her blindness. "One cannot have everything," she says with a cheerful optimism. In spite of which she has always been a life. Typical of her independent spirit, Miss La Flamme is going to assist in getting about and few realize the fact of her blindness, so confident is she of herself.

Miss La Flamme has been sightless since birth. She is now in her 17th year and ready to prepare for a modern woman's place in life. With her mother, she lives at 2022 Kittredge street.

ALL CREEDS TO JOIN IN MOVE TO HELP JEWS

The tragic story of the continued and ruthless massacres of the Jewish people in Poland, Rumania, Russia, Armenia, Syria and other European countries and the cruelties to which they have been subjected, has aroused the citizens of Oakland to call a mass meeting for tomorrow night in the synagogue, Ninth and Castro streets, when a formal protest will be made. The cause of democracy has broken down, creed lines and will bring together representatives from all religions. The speakers will be Rabbi Hirsch, Rabbi Harvey B. Franklin, Judge George Samuel, Joseph R. Knowland, Rev. Francis Van Horn and W. H. L. Hynes.

Some definite action in conformity with a national movement will be taken to voice the protest of civilization against the barbarity which is being practiced in the countries of Europe where the Jew is held in derision. If the massacres and systematic degradation continue the Hebrew race will be wiped from Europe within a short time. Reports of official bodies sent throughout the world to ascertain the true conditions of the oppressed people are so filled with terrible tragedy that they cannot be read without a shudder.

The protest meeting has been called for 8 o'clock. The public is invited.

KERNER'S HIT IN PINCH BRINGS DEFEAT TO THE OAKS

FRANKIE DENNY AND BATTING ORTEGA WILL BOX MAIN EVENT AT AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

ROD MURPHY'S PINCH HIT FOR OUR GANG IS WASTED; PLAYERS AND FANS ON EDGE

Howard's New Line-Up Looks Good, With Murphy on First and Arlett on Third

By BOB SHAND.

Captain Rod Murphy came through with the old wallop in the pinch again yesterday, but alas, the clutch was wasted, as were the two runs that the Oakland infield chased across the plate. But it was no fault of Murphy's that the Oaks lost the opening game to the Seals by the score of three to one. There was a million at first base. It was the first opportunity local and San Francisco fans had to see Murphy in action at the initial corner and the consensus of opinion was that Rodman Howard had made a wide move.

With Murphy on first, Pop Arlett loomed up at the third station and the general utility man gave a wonderful display of fielding and throwing. Pop is as good a third sacker as has been seen around here this season, that is judging by his work yesterday. If he can maintain that pace he is going to prove a valuable man to the Oaks. In addition to holding down third like a champion, Pop contributed a pair of poppy shots to the hit column.

It takes the Seals and Oaks to draw the crowd and the biggest Tuesday attendance of the season, with the exception of one game, reported on the job. The players were on their toes every minute and here came arguments, snarls and weepings there are going to be arguments all week and as long as the Seals, Finner and Bedford are doing the umpiring. It is a tough job umpiring ball games in this or any other league and it is hard to get men like Bill Guthrie and Bedford and Finner look like the best of the best of the best of the best.

It is too bad that Guthrie and Casey are not here this week to arbitrate what promises to be the hottest set of games played so far this season. Neither Bedford or Finner are sure of themselves and they have a bad habit of giving two or three decisions on one play. Pinch-hitting yesterday, Bedford delivered an oration to Kerner when the Seals' pinch-hitter committed a foul. Bedford was also wailing on the Seals' catcher, but his decisions were given impartially and neither side got the better of them.

The Oaks started right after Spider Baum in the opening cantle when Willie Lane picked a double and scored on Bobbie's drive down the third base line. Denny Willie watched four bad ones go by and Denny and Sammy were hunted along by Hack Miller. Murphy's pinch hit was a waste of an opportunity to beat the Seals and Murphy hurried in with the second run.

The Seals collected a run in each of the first three frames and the Oaks forced into the lead in the sixth when Murphy's blow shot two base-runners scurrying to the payoff station, but the blow off came in the seventh when San Francisco went for a trio of tallies. Phil Kerner was the responsible guy as Philip doubled to left with the bases full. Two runs came over as a result of the hit but Jimmy Caveney took a chance and ignoring the coach's frantic signal to pull up at third, steamed for the plate. Miller nailed him, but the Seals' pinch hit was as good as any of them.

Denny Willie is going to bite somebody out of these five days. When Joe Connolly took Denny's fly in the eighth after a long run the Oakland outfielder returned to the locker room talking in himself. Denny cursed everything in the park from the bat to the umpires and back again. He has his heart in the game, has Denny.

Rowdy Elliott got so sore when Schick grabbed his fly in the seventh that he tried to start an argument with the bunch in the home cage. The gang gave Rowdy a verbal lashing and he left the ballpark a lot of satisfaction by expressing his opinion of Seals players and Seals fans. The Oaks are certainly up to the mark.

Bill Stump was charged with an error in the seventh when he made a low throw to first of Baum's outfielder. Baum's throw was a grounder, that's what it was, but then Rod Murphy is no Earl Shelly. Roy Corhan went in to run for Baum and committed the error.

When Jimmy Caveney flew to left in the first inning he hit the ball a terrific wallop. On a line the ball would have hit the Seals' catcher and the pinch hit would have been a home run. Lane had to back up in the clubhouse to gather in the pill.

Angels and Oaks Did Some Heavy Hitting Last Week

The Oaks and Angels were the heavy hitters in the series played last week with the Angels being the ones who hit the highest average. The Oaks' pinch hit was the responsible guy as Philip doubled to left with the bases full. Two runs came over as a result of the hit, but Jimmy Caveney took a chance and ignoring the coach's frantic signal to pull up at third, steamed for the plate. Miller nailed him, but the Seals' pinch hit was as good as any of them.

There was more genuine rooting in the game than at any previous contest. Some of the fans got out of their seats and at times there was almost open warfare among the fans. The Seals' fans kept up the pace they set yesterday and the fans remain in their present frame of mind that there will be some clashes both on the field and in the stands and benches.

Willie Lane got a chance to play and here when Roy Corhan could not play on account of a muscle and the little "bushy" played and the Seals' pinch hit was a waste of an opportunity to beat the Seals and Murphy hurried in with the second run.

Caveney looked just as good as when he does at third and this means a whole lot. Jimmy handled some hard chances without the

P.A.A. Junior Swim Will Be Holiday Event

Local Mermen Will Vie for Honors in the Neptune Tank

Testing the speed of the junior swimming family of the Pacific Association, the 100 yards free style championship at Neptune Beach on Decoration Day promises to be a hot race. The junior championship have been exceptionally successful this season on account of the number of entries that have appeared in each event, and also because of the merit of the younger swimmers. The 100-yard swim in 1918 style has ever been the classic of the sport, so the race at Alameda should be one of the best of the competitions of the younger element.

John C. Daly, the crack speedster who placed fourth in the junior National trials, like the favorite for the gold medal. St. Mary's College will have a junior of great ability in the race in the person of John J. Freitas. Freitas has been receiving some very valuable coaching from Studly Kruger and Clarence Lane, the Hawaiian, and his stroke has improved in the last week.

Frank Norris, the Alameda favorite, will be out in his suit. In 1918 he broke Alex Wickham's 25-yard record in the Coe Aquatic tank. Norris, whose speed swimming has suffered from the attention he has given to the breast stroke, will try again in the junior race. Mitchell is the son of the late swimming coach, Walter Madge of Stockton, is sending Ralph Cruise, the Miller City bantam, who can swim like an eel.

The Alameda pool will be divided into two parts making the swimming lap fifty yards. This makes it a race with one turn. The event will be judged by the Pacific Association's championship committee.

NORMAN ROSS TO COMPETE IN FRANCE

NEW YORK, May 28 (United Press).—An American athletic team was named here last night by the Amateur Athletic Union to represent the United States in the inter-allied games in France June 11 to July 1. They will be augmented on the other side by athletes now in the service and serving in the A. I. F.

Selections here were limited to army men who have been in service either at home or abroad. Boxers, swimmers, runners, and other sportsmen were chosen. Among the stars who will be sent across are Sol Butler, peso sprinter of Duquesne, Andy Johnson, Chicago sprinter, Andy Kelly, Holy Cross sprinter, Bob Simpson, Missouri hurdler, who will wear the New York colors, and George Damm, a winged hurdler, Sherman Landers, Pennsylvania pole vaulter, Howard M. Johnson, Penn State pentathlete, Norman Ross, Chicago swimmer, Stranley Lewis, wrestler, William J. Hildon, California, tennis, and S. Howard Voshell, tennis.

BILL STEEN WILL BE ON MOUND FOR OAKS

Bill Steen, the prize of Pittsburgh, will pitch for the Oaks against the Seals at Recreation Park this afternoon and will take another shot at the San Francisco crew Saturday afternoon.

Foreman Howard's original intention was to have Bill Steen pitch here yesterday, but Steen came into town last night and asked to be sent against his old team-mates today and Howard granted the request. "Let me hurl tomorrow," said Steen last night, "and I will come back tomorrow." "Pair enough," replied Del, "go to it."

Steen has only just started with the Oaks a pair of weeks ago, but he needed that game under his belt. The former local star is in better shape now and promises to turn in a pair of victories.

Johnny Ray Will Box Baird Tomorrow

Johnny Ray, Pittsburgh lightweight, and Lieutenant Earl Baird will meet in the main event at the Coliseum, San Francisco, tomorrow night. Billy Shude meets Steve Dalton in the semi-finals.

Clever Boxers Will Provide Seven Scraps

Jimmy Dundee and Jimmy Ford Meet in the Special Event

If confidence counts for anything, Frankie Denny is already a winner. Frankie Denny, the champion of the main event of Tommy Simpson's show at the Auditorium this evening and the former prize of Honolulu has confidence in his cronies that he is going to win the battle. Frankie has it figured out that if he crowds Ortega and keeps on swinging one or two of the wallopers will land and the way Denny feels about it one of his harem-makers is good for a few-second nap on the canvas.

Denny is going to try every minute he is in the ring. He knows that he will have to keep busy to make any kind of a showing against the Man from Honolulu and he is going to put up the fight of his life. It will be a case of either Denny or Ortega taking the count, according to Frankie's plan of keeping the heavyweights now with the deck stacked to root for Frankie and if he lights according to schedule he will gain hundreds of new admirers.

FORD AND DUNDEE

The Denny-Ortega bout is only one of a flock of seven bouts that Simpson will offer his cash customers tonight. Eddie Dundee and Jimmy Dundee and Jimmy Ford will have looked mighty sweet as a main event, but the pair are down for only a special event tonight. Dundee is a prize favorite with local boxing fans and Ford, by his two clever fights here in the past two weeks, has gained quite a following.

The army life built up the North Beach lightweight and Ford was never in better condition than he is now. He knows what a victory over Dundee means and he is going to be on his toes. Ford likes Dundee, he will knock him out as a real main event and the promoters will be falling over each other to get his services.

Eddie Dundee, who stopped Frankie Williams last week, has drawn Jack Davis tonight and Eddie promises to make Davis a date with Ches De Loins and Young Fitzsimmons will hook up with Young Sharkey for the "young" championship. Tommy Finner and Baiting Larson will open the festival. The first pair will be turned loose at 8:30.

White Sox Going Along Easily in American League

By H. C. HAMILTON, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Bob Johnson's White Sox are settling a last week's defeat by a 4-1 victory over the Athletics today. Johnson's pitching was brilliant, holding top positions in the younger major. The decided Drowns wound up the contest with a 1-0 victory in which they lowered that highly touted organization to fourth place.

The White Sox are having a runaway race of things right now. They may not continue or they may. But there is one thing sure—the acquisition of Dutch Leonard, who pitched today, was one of the greatest strokes ever perpetrated by Frank Navin and Hingine Jennings.

The former Red Sox heaver still is a star. He proved this when he humiliated the Athletics in his first start. He pitched a 4-1 victory over the Athletics, and George Damm, who seems to have grown young all over again, pitched a 4-1 victory over the Athletics.

Brown Appointed Secretary of S. C. A. L.

VALLEJO, May 28.—Professor Charles Brown, one of the most popular educators in the state, has been named as the new secretary of the Southern California Athletic League. Brown has been in the organization for the past five years and has been a very enthusiastic worker in county athletics.

Rudy Nelson Due From Europe Today

Rudolph Herskovits, better known to the local boxing fans as Rudy Nelson, is expected to arrive home today. Nelson, who has been in Europe for the past two years, is a former champion of the world in the light heavyweight division. He was among those who entered Germany after the signing of the armistice.

Big League Gossip

Cactus Cravath's home-run clout, which won him for the Phillies over the Reds, 4 to 1.

Hub Leonard allowed the Athletics five hits, winning his first start for the Tigers, 3 to 1.

Bob Shawkey made a journey to the Brown's slaughter pen, losing before he could be decked, 5 to 3.

Tom Phillips' rookie made the Red Sox stop, and the Indians again smashed the champions, 6 to 4.

Rddie Cicotte goes on and on, 10 to 2, again, the Senators capturing, 4 to 1.

Bill Dault took the measure of the Robins, 4 to 1.

George Stallings announced the sale of a couple of outfielders and the Braves said goodbye to losing, 5 to 0.

Alex Trambitas and Hunefield Box Draw

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—Alex Trambitas of Portland and Hunefield of Los Angeles, lightweights, fought a four-round draw at Vernon, near here, last night. The third round rounds were even. The third round Trambitas ahead. In the fourth Hunefield came back strong.

Your George was hailed as a real fighter today following his performance in the Vernon four-round show last night. He knocked out Jimmy Finner in startling fashion during the closing minute of the last round.

Sam Fitzpatrick Discovers Heavies in Late War Zone

"Charlie" Noonan, the New York sportsman, who made it possible for Sam Fitzpatrick to take Jack Johnson to Australia to fight Tommy Burns and win the world's heavyweight championship title, received a letter last week from Fitzpatrick who is now in the United States, serving with the army of occupation, in which he makes this statement: "There are three heavyweights now with the American army near Cologne who could whip Johnson when he was at his best. No matter who wins the Dempsey battle, the victor will have to meet one of these three men. When they take place get a bet down on the soldier-punch."

Mr. Noonan financed the Sam Fitzpatrick-Jack Johnson combination and the idea of the fighters who were Johnson's ingratitude. Johnson won the championship. Noonan lost a small fortune. He is now in the army and has a chance to make a million dollars.

Board of Boxing Control in Favor of Toledo Fight

TOLEDO, Ohio, May 28.—"Your opposition is a half century behind the times," was the answer of the army, navy and civil board of boxing control to the protests of the Cincinnati boxing board when the Cincinnati board proposed a fight between Dempsey and Willard.

The board of boxing control is a body of men who are in the army, navy and civil service. They are the ones who are in charge of the boxing control in the United States. They are the ones who are in charge of the boxing control in the United States.

John W. Summer Arrives At the Baseball Grounds

John W. Summer arrived at the ball park yesterday and coats were peeled for the first time this season. The baseball fan pays no attention to his calendar and the progress of the spuds and other garden truck means nothing to him. But when the fans peel their coats and sit in their shirt sleeves while punning the umpires the summer is here. And it was hot enough yesterday to peel the works and don a bathing suit.

Referee Candidates Have Hired Campaign Managers

TOLEDO, O., May 28.—The big-town war politics of a checkered vest smoldering chest and (perhaps) voice is a striking violet compared with some of the "campaign" managers of the boxing board. The candidates for the position of referee for the Willard-Dempsey fight July 4, it was contained in a letter to the secretary of the board, are the members Major General Leonard Wood, several governors and other prominent army and navy officials.

"We consider that those who are opposing this match are incurring grave consequences," said the secretary. "The boxing board is a body of men who are in the army, navy and civil service. They are the ones who are in charge of the boxing control in the United States. They are the ones who are in charge of the boxing control in the United States."

The champion probably will have fifty or sixty points on the board by the time he weighs in. He is expected to scale about 245 ringleads, and Dempsey about 185.

The boxers themselves will agree upon a referee if possible, but in event of failure, Rickard will make the selection under authority granted by the agreement. He probably would not take such action until two weeks before the fight. While Rickard has been silent on the subject, it is New York referee official of experience. There are also several referees of Pacific Coast fame entirely satisfactory to Rickard.

Jack Kearns, manager of the challenger, says he does not care who is chosen "so long as he knows his business and keeps the men pasting away at each other."

Virtually every referee of prominence has been mentioned, and many "dark horses" have been placed in the spotlight by their advance agents. The list of well-known referees includes Matt Smith, who has been in the business for many years, and Ollie Pecora of Toledo; "Honest Dave" Fitzgerald, a former alderman and ring official of New Haven, Conn., and many others.

Fabrique secured a hit and scored a run for the Angels.

Fournier and Crawford continued their good hitting for the Angels by getting two each.

The Salt Lake Bees jumped into fifth place ahead of Sacramento by defeating the latter club at Salt Lake, 6 to 3. Vance pitched for the Coyotes, who were defeated by the Bees, 4 to 1. Vance pitched for the Bees, 4 to 1.

Mains allowed the Coyotes to get their three runs in the second inning, but after that the Coyotes had few chances to score.

Earle Shelly was again the best hitter for the Bees by hitting his eleventh homer of the season and also a single.

Ernie Johnson handled nine chances at short for the Bees and got out without a hit, although several were difficult bounces.

Paul Fittery was in the box for the Angels and the Tigers were held runless until the ninth inning, when the Angels collected their four runs in the fourth and fifth innings. Dawson worked in the box for the Tigers at the first, but was relieved by Wheeler Dell in the fifth after three of the four runs had been charged against him.

CENTRAL LEAGUE SUSPENDS; WAR DECLARED ON VALLEJO MANAGER BY OTHER TEAMS

Bushers on the Warpath, Threaten to Make Navy Town Manager Regret His Actions

By EDDIE MURPHY

There will be no games in the Central California League for another month, but fans of Contra Costa county will not be waiting for baseball games during that time, as the managers of the Richmond, Elks, Crockett and Pittsburg (Columbia Steel Co.) teams have already arranged games. It was at a meeting of the Central California League managers held last night in THE TRIBUNE building, that a vote was cast to suspend play until July 6. It was on a motion of President Jerry Lawlor that the suspension of play was voted on. Jerry believed that it would give the weak teams in the league time to get into shape to make a good showing against such clubs as Pittsburg, Crockett and Richmond.

But if one was to give the traveling clubs in the Central California League a good look over, they would find that they are not so weak. The Alameda Belshams and the Union Construction Co. appear to be as strong as the teams that have been getting by with the best of them for the last four or five years. The whole trouble with them is that they are in the planning department and getting a good pitcher. The whole trouble with them is that they are in the planning department and getting a good pitcher. SKIN ABLAZE WITH ECZEMA

CONSTANT ITCHING ALMOST UNBEARABLE

Only those afflicted with Eczema, with its terrifying irritation and ceaseless itching know what constant torture this disease can cause. The disease appears in different ways, sometimes with a reddening and irritation of the skin, sometimes in the form of blisters. Other cases of Eczema take the form of a dry, scaly condition of the skin that cracks and peels. But no matter in what form the disease appears, it is a source of constant fiery irritation that is well-nigh unbearable.

Eczema is very often considered a skin disease. This is a natural mistake, as it attacks the skin and it is through the skin that it causes so much discomfort and suffering. But the real seat of the disease is the blood. The germs of Eczema are in the blood, and the irritated and diseased condition of the skin is the result of the germs trying to break out of the system. Beyond the use of antiseptics to promote cleanliness, there is no local treatment that will accomplish a permanent cure of this disease.

And those who have been relying altogether upon salves, ointments and other local applications to the skin will find that no permanent good will come from such treatment by itself.

Read how Basil M. Lanneau, who resides on Confederate avenue in Atlanta, Ga., found relief from this terrifying disease after all local treatment had failed. He writes:

"I suffered with a most aggravated case of Eczema of the itching kind so severe that I could not sleep. I used thirteen pounds of ointment, tried every remedy known to man, but was not cured by two skin specialists. I am now cured by Eczema medicine. I have used several bottles of S. S. S. I am entirely cured."

Years of untold suffering can be avoided if the real cause of a disease can be definitely determined, and the proper method of treatment employed. Hence those afflicted with Eczema will continue to suffer as long as they consider the disease a condition of the skin, and rely solely upon local applications of salves, ointments and similar remedies. If you really want to be cured you must realize that the disease is in the blood, and you can expect relief only from treatment that is directed toward cleansing the blood of the disease germs. This is why S. S. S. is so successful in the treatment of Eczema and all other diseases of the blood; because it acts as an antidote to any impurity that finds lodgment in the blood. Being purely vegetable and guaranteed not to contain a particle of mineral substance, it is an exceptionally fine tonic, and besides eliminating from the blood all traces of impurity, it builds up and strengthens the entire system at the same time.

We invite everyone afflicted with Eczema, or other blood or skin disease, to write our medical department for advice, which is gladly given without charge. Full instructions as to how to treat your own individual case will be gladly furnished by our chief medical adviser, who is an expert on these diseases. Thomas Likely To Hold Pole In Big Race

Makes 140 Miles an Hour in Practice Spin Around Track

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 28.—(EAP) Thomas, who will hold the "pole" position in the Indianapolis automobile race today, is the favorite to win. His car, a 1919 Ford, is the fastest in the race, making 140 miles an hour yesterday in a practice spin around the track. Thomas, who is a former champion, is expected to win the race, which will start at 11 a. m. today. The race is expected to be a close one, with many of the other drivers expected to make a strong showing.

NARCOTICS SALE
PLAN OPPOSED
BY PETERSEN

That the plan, now being urged in New York, whereby the police would be empowered to handle sales of opium, cocaine and other forbidden narcotics, to permit addicts opportunity to buy under police supervision and thus "taper off" their habits, would not be successful is held by Captain of Inspectors Walter J. Petersen.

Petersen believes that if the plan should be adopted in any way in this state the police should not handle the matter, but that it should be regulated by a board of the best physicians and even then, he says, he fears it would be a menace rather than a good reform.

"To place the sale of narcotics in the hands of the police would mean the most prolific source of graft in history," said Petersen. "I believe it impossible that the thing could be administered honestly. Those handling it would make millions, of course, but the damage to law, order and the police system would be enormous."

"Fooling with opium is like playing with matches; there's so much graft about it that it seems to spread corruption. The idea of tapering off a victim is good; perhaps it should only be done by a physician, working with a patient held in confinement or else registered and open at all times for investigation."

Trio Charged With Robbing Soldier

Jack Williams, Joe Harrison and Albert McBride were arrested last night at Eleventh and Webster streets upon the complaint of Helen Grey, 750 Kingston avenue, who said the three men were holding up a soldier, Harold Reve, at Ninth and Webster. They were intoxicated and charged on the city jail records as drunk.

Memorial Hall Favored by Veterans, Who Will Protest City Park Proposal

In the upper picture is shown the way the proposed memorial hall for honoring soldiers of Oakland will look if it is constructed. The lower picture shows the ground plan of the proposed building.

Meeting Tomorrow Night Will Consider Plans for Tribute to War Heroes

Whether Oakland is to endorse a memorial hall or the proposed "memorial park plan" is to be decided tomorrow night, when the citizens memorial committee is to meet in the city hall chambers. Delegations representing local war veterans, and from the War Veterans' Association will be present to protest the park plan, which is also opposed by Mayor John L. Davies. "The veterans want a memorial hall, where their bodies can meet," said Walter J. Petersen, chairman of the veterans' association. "If the city wants to give us a memorial hall we will be very pleased; but we object to being made the excuse for any kind of a park deal. If the city wants parks, that is a matter for a bond issue and has nothing to do with the veterans."

Mayor Davies will oppose the plan, on the ground that the people have already voted down the park plan once, he says. The mayor and a veterans' committee will offer tentative architects' plans for a proposed memorial hall building, to be erected on the shores of the lake and to contain meetings room for the Grand Army and its affiliates, and other veterans' bodies. This building is designed along the lines of structures planned in other cities. "I hold that a memorial hall is the proper memorial to the men who have given their all for their country," said Davies. "It will be what the boys want; it will be for their use, and it will be a monument to their bravery as well as a benefit to the city."

"A few real estate men got on that committee and started a land boom, if necessary I will name a new committee to stop it."

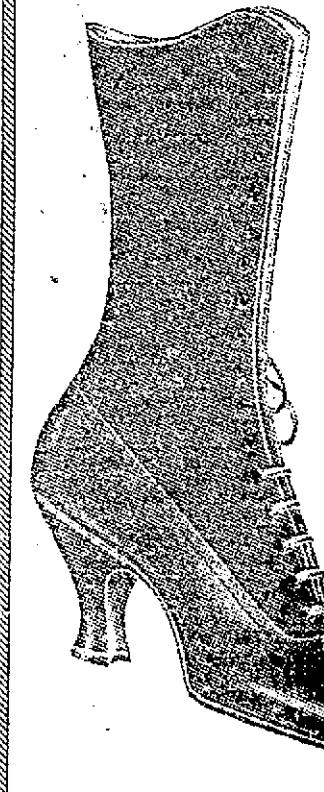

"The plans to be presented by the mayor were designed by a local architect, and are for a pillared structure of classical design with large rotunda, meeting rooms in the wings, clubrooms and other facilities. It is of the general style of national public buildings. It is proposed to raise funds for it by public subscriptions."

'HEALER' WHO GOT WOMAN'S MONEY HELD

Mrs. Adeline Hardesty of Carson City, Nevada, is possessed today of $3900 from which she had paid company and Sam Wood—at least this is the name he gave the police—is dispossessed of the amount in question. Wood, a woman with whom he has been living and a boy about 19 are in the city prison, while their record is being looked into.

The story told by Mrs. Hardesty, who is 70 years old, leads the police to believe that Wood is a swindler. Mrs. Hardesty said that she came to California from Nevada a few weeks ago, and went to Pacific Grove, where she met Wood, who gave her to understand that he was single. She had with her approximately $700, and Wood, representing himself as a healer and making her acquaintance, found this out.

Mrs. Hardesty said she was treated twice in Pacific Grove by Wood and that she paid him $700 for these treatments. He left for Oakland and she followed him here. The Oakland police were apprised of the situation and urged Mrs. Hardesty to have Wood arrested but she declined and said that what she did was none of the business of the police. The investigation was continued, however, and the fact that Wood and the woman and boy were associated was learned. It was also learned that they had paid their rent, packed their baggage and were prepared to depart.

Police investigation failed to disclose whether the woman and boy are wife and son of Wood's, but it did disclose that in his sock the boy had $1400 that had belonged to Mrs. Hardesty. Further search resulted in causing a garbage can in the Wood apartment to disgorge $2500 more, which Mrs. Hardesty acknowledged she had given Wood to "invest" for her.

It is the theory of the police that Wood was prepared to leave town as soon as Mrs. Hardesty had completed her plan to give him the remainder of her money, some $3000, for "investment purposes."

School Fire of Incendiary Origin
Livermore Institution Endangered

LIVERMORE, May 28.—Incendiarism is asserted to be responsible for the second fire in three months that has threatened to destroy the Livermore high school. Deputy Sheriff L. E. Wright, Town Marshal Dan S. Smith, and Town Trustee R. O. Housen are conducting an investigation today as the result of evidence that the fire in the building yesterday afternoon originated in a pile of old shingles in the loft.

Lawrence Soares, one of the pupils, detected the odor of smoke about 1:30 o'clock. The former fire had started in the chemistry laboratory and the door to this room was opened. The room was full of smoke pouring from the loft, and others of the pupils climbed the ladder and found the fire well under way. They extinguished it before much damage was done.

An airplane had landed near the school and most of the pupils had left the building to see it, and the fire could have been started while they were out.

The pupils were examined by the investigators but none could give any information of a tendency to solve the mystery.

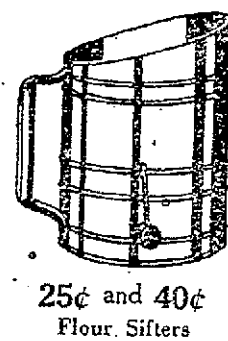

Married Before His
